PREFATORY NOTE.

The Editor, on the completion of the First Volume of the new Quarterly Series, has to express his obligations to many old Contributors for their continued support.

His thanks are also due to those new Correspondents who have so kindly favoured him with important Genealogical and Historical data.

He laments the loss of many old friends, more especially the late Mr. Granville Leveson Gower, F.S.A., whose friendship and literary aid were so greatly valued.

THE

Baptismal, Marriage, and Burial Registers

OF THE

Parish of Bidston,

1581 TO 1700.

EDITED AND ANNOTATED BY WILLIAM FERGUSSON IRVINE.

With the sanction and co-operation of the Rector, these Registers, from the year 1679, have been printed from the original Registers in the Parish Chest, and the earlier years, namely 1581 to 1678, have been supplied from the Transcripts remaining in the Diocesan Registry at Chester.

In illustration of the entries in the Registers nearly 100 Wills of the principal inhabitants of the Parish, now preserved in the Probate Registry at Chester, are printed in abstract in the volume. The volume also contains biographical notices of the various Incumbents.

The Parish of Bidston formerly comprised the townships of Moreton, Saughall Massey, Bidston, Claughton, and Birkenhead, and its Registers therefore contain records of the inhabitants of a large portion of the northern half of the Hundred of Wirral.

Subscribers' names will be received by WILLMER BROTHERS and Co., Ltd., Chester Street, Birkenhead; by MITCHELL and HUGHES, 140 Wardour Street, London, W.; or by the Editor, WM. FERGUSSON IRVINE, 18 Devonshire Road, Birkenhead.

Armorial Bookplates.

WILLIAM GRIFFITH OF LLYN, CARNARVONSHIRE.

"William Griffith of Llyn" (1707), who would be more correctly described as of Cefn Amwlch in Llyn, which is a district in Carnarvonshire, was eldest son and heir of John Griffith of the same place, by Elisabeth his wife, eldest daughter of Robert, second Viscount Bulkeley. He was the representative of a very ancient family descended in the male line from Rhys ap Tudor Mawr, Prince of South Wales in 1077, through Trahaiarn goch, a Chieftain of Llyn, whose arms he bore quarterly, 2 and 3, with those of Rhys ap Tudor 1 and 4. In 1708 he was Member of Parliament for Carnarvon Boroughs, and in 1713 he represented the county. He married Mary, daughter of "Sir Bibye Lake of London," and died s.p. in 1714, aged 28. He was succeeded by his brother John Griffith, whose grandson, another John Griffith, died unmarried December 4, 1794, aged 52, and bequeathed his estates to his cousin-german on his mother's side, Jane Wynne, daughter and coheir of Watkin Wynne of Voelas, co. Denbigh. She married in 1778 the Hon. Charles Finch, second son of Hugh, third Earl of Aylesford; and her great-grandson is the present Charles Arthur Wynne-Finch of Voelas and Cefn Amwlch, late Lieut.-Colonel Scots Guards.

The impalement on the larger shield is most singular. On the face of it one would suppose that it represented the quartered coat of William Griffith's wife; instead of which it is a selection from his own quarterings. His great-great-grandmother was Jane, daughter and coheir of Owen ap Robert Owen of Bodafon y Glyn in Anglesey, who bore Gules, a chevron between three lions rampant or, and quartered, though not in the second place, the three eagles displayed in fess. Then his great-grandmother was Margaret, youngest daughter and coheir of Sir Richard Trevor of Trevalyn, co. Flint, Per bend sinister ermine and ermines, a lion rampant or; and his grandmother was eldest daughter and sole heir of William Davenport of Calveley, co. Chester, Argent, a chevron between three crosses-crosslet fitchée sable, the chevron charged with a mullet for difference. This family of Griffith is now extinct.

Of Langhornes Life be this Memorial given
Whose Race was Virtue & whose Goal was Heaven
Not thro the Selfish, drear, unfriendly Road
Which ancient Moralists and Sophists trod
But in an active Sphere of Christian Love
He mov'd himself & will'd Mankind to move
Enthusiasts Confidence or Sceptics fear
Affected not his equable career
With evangelic Eloquence he warmed
With Reason won us, & with meekness charmed
Shew'd in his Life his converse & his Prayer
The Friends attachment & the Pastors Care
Oft would he in the Mines of Ancient Lore
Historic Truth & moral worth explore
Yet was his aim to dissipate the Night
Of Pagan doubt by Revelations Light
The Christians steady Plan to recommend
Just in its Source & happy in its end
Thus to his Flock whom here he left behind
Thus to his Neighbours who were all mankind
He gave example to pursue with Zeal
His Saviours steps to everlasting Weal
And in the moments of expiring Breath
To gain a Rest of endless Joy in Death.

Entries on the fly-leaf of an old Bible :—

"Elizabeth Beeby was borne the 10th of Decembr 1678, about six of the clocke in the afternoone, and she departed this life the 11 day of Jany. 1679 about two of the clocke in the afternoone.

"Musgrave Beeby Son to Musgrave Beeby and Katherine his wife was borne the 15 of Marche 1679 and departed this life 8th of Marche 1680.

"Theodotia Beeby daughter of Musgrave Beeby and Theodotia his wife was borne the first day of May 1683 about the ninth houre in the evening.

"Elizabeth Beeby Daughter of Musgrave Beeby and Theodotia his wife was borne the 15th day of April 1686. Ye mark M of Margaret Hare, Midwife."

I should be glad of information as to the Beeby family, which is not a Kentish one.

CAREW—SHEPLEY.

With reference to the family of William Carew whose Prayer Book notes appeared in Vol. IV., N.S., p. 321, I think that his identification can now be established with a reasonable degree of certainty. Perhaps some genealogist can elucidate the matter further.

In Cussans's 'History of Hertfordshire,' Hundred of Cashio, p. 187, there is a pedigree of the Carew family which was originally settled at Garrivoe, co. Cork. This pedigree is said to be abridged from one by Courthope, Somerset Herald, and duly enrolled in the College of Arms. It states that Thomas Carew, third and youngest son of Mark Carew, mar. Susanna Frankland of the Ashgrove family, co. Cork, and was father of 1, Marcus Carew of Dean's Rock, co. Cork; 2, Lieutenant Carew, R.N.; 3, Peter Carew of Lisbon, Merchant, killed in the earthquake 1755; and 4, John Carew of the city of Cork.

That Peter Carew was the same person as William Carew appears very probable for the following reasons. They are both said to have been Merchants at Lisbon and killed in the earthquake there in 1755, and both had brothers named Mark. In addition, William Carew had children named Thomas and Susanna, which were the names of "Peter" Carew's parents. Peter may have been the name of Lieutenant Carew.

In the 'Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica,' vol. v., p. 93, further particulars are given respecting this family, and on comparing them with the above-mentioned pedigree the following inconsistencies appear. Sir John Carew is said in the 'Collectanea' to have been appointed Conservator of the Peace in the Barony of Imokilly in 1346, yet his son Robert is stated in the pedigree to have been described in 1488 as the chief of his race. In the pedigree John Carew is described as dying 11 November 1611 while the 'Collectanea' states that he was named in a commission dated 15 August 1618. The 'Collectanea' is apparently correct, for the pedigree proceeds to say that Robert son and heir of John Carew paid a fine on succession to his father's land in 1622. The pedigree is therefore not unimpeachable.

Is anything known about the Frankland family of Ashgrove?

The following notes were written by William Carew on the fly-leaf of a Bible dated 1608, recently in the possession of the late Rev. William Eedson Lumb, M.A.:—

"Married in Lisbon by Mr Morgan 10th May 1741 to Mrs Anne Shepley. WILLIAM CAREW."

"My Dearly beloved Wife Anne Carew aged about Thirty seven years and Six months, after about eight months' illness resigned her precious Soul to the Great Glorious God, the giver of all souls, and died and left me on the 20th day of May 1754 at about one in the morning, her disorder was a dropsy. She was buried the next day in the Evening, being Tuesday, by Mr Williamson, a chaplain. She lies with the child Susannah just by my dear Friend Mr Wm Foxley, in the burying ground at the Estrella.

"My grievous loss, her glorious gain,
Her endless joy, my endless pain. WILLIAM CAREW."

Dr. Collins of York has kindly informed me that in the licence for the marriage of Marmaduke Shepley and Elizabeth Spencer, both were stated to be of Wakefield. He, gentleman, aged 26; she, spinster, aged 20. Their licence was for Wakefield, Kirk Sandall, or Felkirk. Also that on the 9th April 1723 administration of the effects of Marmaduke Shepley, late of the parish of Wakefield, who died intestate, was granted to Elizabeth Shepley, widow and relict.

A Memorial is registered at the Wakefield Deeds Registry of Indentures of Lease and Release, dated the 12 and 13 January 1713, made between Thomas Shepley of South Heendley in the county of York, yeoman, and Mary his wife, and Marmaduke Shepley of Wakefield, clothworker, eldest son of the said Thomas Shepley and Mary his wife, on the one part, and Thomas Bradshaw of the parish of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, Esq., on the other part, relating to closes of land in Himsworth.

ORDWAY.

It is generally understood that James and Abner Ordway, supposed to be brothers, and probably a sister Sara, came to this country, according to tradition, between 1635 and 1640 from England or Wales. Can any one give positive and accurate information on this point? The relationship between James and Abner? From what place in England or Wales they emigrated, on what vessel they embarked, and date and port of arrival in this country?

Abner, presumably the older, was a resident of Watertown in 1643, and married (perhaps as second wife) 15 Aug. 1656, Sarah the widow of Edward Dennis of Boston. She had married Dennis twenty-five years before (1631), and had borne him five children, and the presumption is no children were born of this later marriage. Abner was in Wenham in 1659 and 1660, afterwards in Rowley. Who can give further particulars of his life, date of his death, and place of interment?

Sara Ordway married 8 Oct. 1654 Richard Fitz or Fitts. She died 24 April 1667 without children. Fitz died in 1672, and left legacies to his brother-in-law James Ordway, and the latter's daughter Jane.

James Ordway went with other pioneer settlers to Cocheco, now Dover, N.H., in 1641, but afterwards returned to Newbury, Mass., and in 1648 married Anne Emery, daughter of John Emery from Romsey, England, but then of Newbury, Mass., and from this James and Anne (Emery) Ordway probably descended nearly all now bearing that name in this country. James was a farmer and the owner of several boats and canoes employed in lighterage service in Newbury for many years, and was living after the death of his wife, with one of his children, as late as 1704, mention of him being made in that year in the diary of Rev. Samuel Sewell. His wife Anne died 31 March 1687; her gravestone is still standing in the old cemetery at Newburyport.

Who can give date and place of death of this common ancestor, James? It was probably in some town adjoining or near Newburyport.

James and Anne (Emery) Ordway had children as follows:

1. Ephraim, born 25 April, and died 18 June 1650.

2. James, jun., born 16 April 1651, and married first, 1690, Tirzah Titcomb, daughter of William Titcomb and widow of Thomas Bartlett, and second, 1696, Sarah, daughter of John Clark of Rowley.

3. Edward, born 17 Sep. 1653; married 1678 Mary Wood.

4. Sarah, born 14 Jan. 1655-6.

5. John, born 17 Nov. 1658; married 1681 Mary the daughter of Peter Godfrey.

6. Isaac, born 4 Dec. 1660, and died 15 Jan. 1668.
7. Jane, born 22 Nov. 1663; married 1687 Joshua Richardson, and had six children.
8. Hananiah, born 2 Dec. 1665; married Abigail ——.
9. A son, born 16 May, and died 6 June 1668.
10. Anne, born 12 Feb. 1669-70; married 1690 Isaac Bushnell, and had four children.
11. Mary, born 5 April 1673; married 1698 Daniel Goodrich, and had one child.

The above James, jun., had five children, Edward had five, John ten, and Hananiah five. John's third child James, born 4 July 1687, married 8 Dec. 1714 Elizabeth Heath of Haverhill, and lived in Haverhill or Amesbury. Who can give the narrative of their life? They had children as follows: 1, James, born 23 Oct. 1718; 2, Moses, born 11 April 1721; 3, Elizabeth, born 6 March 1726-7; 4, Elizabeth and 5, Sarah (twins), born 6 Feb. 1728-9; 6, John, born 16 March 1731-2; 7, Benjamin, born 17 Nov. 1733.

The above James (fourth generation), son of James, grandson of John, and great-grandson of the first James, born 23 Oct. 1718, married 23 Sep. 1740 Meribah Morse, daughter of Joseph Morse of Newbury, and lived in Methuen. Can any one give particulars of their lives and dates of death? They had children: 1, Meribah, born 15 June 1742; 2, Abiah, born 7 March 1744; 3, Daniel, born 12 Oct. 1745; 4, James, born 19 Jan. 1747-8; 5, Persis, born 6 April 1750; 6, Joses, born 15 June 1753.

The writer would be glad of any information respecting these inquiries, as well as genealogical data of other or later generations descended from this immigrating ancestor, whether bearing the family name or not.

Reviews.

Archæologia Cantiana: being Transactions of the Kent Archæological Society. Volume XX. London: Printed for the Society by Mitchell and Hughes.

THE Kent Archæological Society, having published eighteen volumes of Transactions, concluded that a General Index to these volumes would be highly appreciated by its members. Accordingly, the Nineteenth Volume, which consists of the General Index, a Catalogue of the Society's treasures at its Museum in Maidstone, etc., may be said to close a section of the Society's Publications; and that with the Twentieth Volume, issued to the members in January, a new section begins. Very general regret will be felt by all readers of 'Archæologia Cantiana' that the present volume is the last to be edited by Canon Scott Robertson, whose able editorship, in this as in previous volumes, is apparent on every page. Vol. XX. begins with an article on "Kentish Administrations from 1604—1649," occupying 48 pages of tabulated matter, giving names and residences of about 1600 various grants, and compiled by Mr. Leland L. Duncan. A short paper follows, illustrated by three plates, giving an account of "Romano-British Vessels found near Wingham," written by Mr. Dowker. The next paper is by the Rev. A. J. Pearman, on the "Family of Lovelace," ending with an early pedigree of the family from 1417 to 1679; the article is interesting in many details. There is also an ample pedigree of the Smythe Family of Kent, and that of the Smythes, Viscount Strangford, of Dromore, Ireland. This pedigree is supplemented by an able account of the family by Mr. J. P. Wadmore, with a copy of an early portrait of "Mr Thomas Smith, Knt., late Embassador from his Majtie to ye great Emperour of Russie," in 1612, with his autograph—he dying in 1625 of the plague, as Hasted conjectured—and a plate shewing his monument at the church at Sutton-at-Hone, Kent; a plate of the quaint little church being also given. Another interesting article, on the "Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Dover," emanates from the pen of the lamented late Canon Puckle, of whom the lines suggest themselves, he only being laid in his grave on March 2nd, attended by over forty clergymen, and several thousands of persons from the district of which he had been Rural Dean, and after a ministry of fifty-five years in the Parish Church of Dover. The article on the "Ancient Fabric of St. Mary" is ably illustrated by three tinted plates, and the tower of it shewn in another plate; this he conjectures was not meant by the Romano-British builder as a church tower, but for purposes of military defence. This article is followed by another by the late Canon, on the "Vestiges of Roman Dover," and is illustrated by a plan shewing the site occupied by the Romans in Dover about the middle of the fifth century. The Rev. Grevile M. Livett has an excellent paper on the "Early Norman Churches near the Medway Valley," and this is followed by Mr. George M. Arnold's paper on the "Ruined Chapel of St. Katherine at Shorne, Kent," illustrated by a tinted plate of door-arch, window, sedilia, and piscina, and the exterior in 1774. Mr. Arnold also contributes a short article on the "Old Rectory at Northfleet," illustrated by two plates. The "Early History of Trottescliffe Church" is contributed by the Rev. Canon Scott Robertson, who traces it from A.D. 788, and the church is shewn from the north-east and south in two excellent plates. The Editor likewise contributes two other papers, one on the "Burial-places of the Archbishops of Canterbury," down to Cardinal Reginald Pole, who seems to have been the last Archbishop buried there; and which is illustrated by two representations of the tomb of Archbishop Hubert Walter, who died in 1205, as it stood before being opened, and when opened in 1890; there is also a representation of the Chalice and Paten found in the tomb; this being followed by one on the "Old Church of St. Martin at Dover," reckoned in A.D. 691 as a "royal chapel," and is full of historical interest. There are several other articles of importance, one giving records of the "Removal of St. Martin's Church, New Romney," and another on "Sandgate Castle in 1539-40," relating the particulars of its building from an old Harleian MS., by order of Henry VIII.; both of these are by Mr. Loftie Rutton, and are very interesting by the details given of the price of tools and material at the time, also the price of labour, etc. This latter paper is illustrated by four plates shewing the Castle at different times and aspects. Other articles are also in the volume, and they again shew the same valuable editorship and care taken in its production which has characterized the whole of the nineteen volumes previously issued, thus forming a standard library of Kentish Archæology which is not equalled by any other similar society in Great Britain. We may add that the Rev. Canon C. F. Routledge, of Canterbury, has been chosen to succeed Canon Scott Robertson in the editorship of the Kent Society's 'Transactions,' and, doubtless, under his care future volumes will be as attractive and interesting as those already published.

"Oh! for the touch of a vanished hand
And the sound of a voice that is still,"

The History of Elton, Huntingdonshire. By the Rev. ROSE FULLER WHISTLER, M.A., Rector of Elton. London: Mitchell and Hughes.

This is an extremely interesting book. The story of the Parish of Elton, dating from the Domesday Survey, is briefly but well told in the first two chapters. Elton Church, which was "restored" in 1885 by the Earl of Carysfort, is described in the Third Chapter. Chapter IV. gives particulars of "The Goods of the Church"; also information concerning the Churchyard, which contains tombs of the Proby Family, of Bishop Claughton, and of Archdeacon Kempthorne. In the Fifth Chapter the "Rectory and the Rectors" are noticed—a list of the Rectors since 1554 being given. Four Rectors are named who held the living for 202 years. A notable name in the list is that of Dr. Frederic William Faber—more generally known as Father Faber—of whom and of his works many interesting details are narrated. The chapter (XI.) devoted to the Parish Registers is of much value; and in Chapter XII. "Briefs"—sometimes called "Letters of Request"—are explained, and several quotations therefrom given. Churchwardens' Accounts, Local Reminiscences, and other subjects are ably treated. Ten illustrations are interspersed in the Work, and a good Index concludes a book which may be taken as an excellent model of what a local history should be. It is gratifying to know that the edition printed of this book was largely subscribed for, and that only a few copies now remain for disposal.

How to Decipher and Study Old Documents. By E. E. THOYTS. With an Introduction by C. TRICE MARTIN, Assistant-Keeper of H.M. Records. London: Elliot Stock.

THIS book is on its title-page appropriately described as "The Key to the Family Deed Chest." Mr. Martin, in his Introduction, thus summarizes its contents: "The meaning of the various kinds of documents which are likely to be found among the title-deeds of an estate, or among the archives of a parish or a corporation, are described without needless technicalities, in a practical way, which will appeal to those who begin to work among such material without previous knowledge." In his Preface the author says, "I have tried to supply information supplementary to what is already printed on the subject, rather than repeat what has previously been explained. The growing fashion for all kinds of antiquarianism creates a desire for books treating upon such subjects, and this has indueed me to write this book." We cordially recommend the volume to all interested in genealogical research, and especially to those contemplating writing family histories. It is to be regretted that so useful a book should have a faulty Table of Contents; the figures indicating the pages of Chapters IV. to IX. are all wrong: this we call attention to with the view of the references being correctly given in later editions. We would suggest the addition of a reliable Index, to render the volume still more valuable to students of Genealogy.

LITERARY NOTES.

Among forthcoming Genealogical, Heraldic, and Historical Works, the following are of particular note:—

'Muniments of the Ancient Saxon Family of Wingfield,' compiled by MERVYN EDWARD, SEVENTH VISCOUNT POWERSCOURT, from the Archives in the British Museum, College of Arms, and Records Office, Dublin, and from other sources. This Work will be illustrated by numerous plates, consisting of portraits, facsimiles of original documents, photos of arms, tombs, etc. Only a few copies of the book will be available for subscribers.

The Second Volume of the 'Visitation of England and Wales,' edited by JOSEPH JACKSON HOWARD, LL.D., Maltravers Herald Extraordinary, and FREDERICK ARTHUR CRISP, is now in the Press, and will, it is expected, be issued to subscribers next October. Applications for Prospectuses and Subscription Forms should be addressed to F. A. CRISP, Esq., Grove Parl, Denmark Hill, London, S.E.

'Records of the Cust Family of Pinchbeck, Stamford, and Belton, in Lincolnshire,' compiled by Lady ELIZABETH CUST. Part I. of this Work, comprising the history of the Custs of Pinchbeck, is now being privately printed, and only a few copies will be available for distribution.

'Modern History of the City of London: A Pictorial and Descriptive Record of Municipal and Social Progress during the last 150 Years,' by CHARLES WELCH, F.S.A., Librarian to the Corporation of the City of London; with Illustrations drawn and selected by PHILIP NORMAN, F.S.A. This interesting Work is now being offered to subscribers at £1 1s. net. On the close of the subscription list the price will be raised to £2 2s. Prospectuses and subscription forms can be had on application to Blades, East, and Blades, 23 Abchurch Lane, E.C., or to Mitchell and Hughes, 140 Wardour Street, W.

There is a rare collection of specimens of early Typography now on view at No. 30 Rue Boileau, Auteuil, Paris, by Mr. Holtrop. It consists of about 8000 examples of early printing, representing the productions of 142 European cities, and comprising 1084 Printing Presses, of which 300 belong to the fifteenth century. The whole collection has taken forty years to get together, is in 4000 folio sheets contained in 46 portfolios, and is valued at £2400. This is a good opportunity for some wealthy man to purchase to accompany the Blades Collection, which was presented to the Printers' Lending Library, and is now retained at their new premises in St. Bride Street, E.C., for the use of the printers of London.

It is in contemplation to publish a series of Bookplates, accompanied by letter-press descriptions, in parts, each containing twenty-five examples, under the patronage of several gentlemen, possessors of large and interesting collections. Full particulars of issue will shortly be announced.

Armorial Families.

COMPILED AND EDITED BY ARTHUR CHARLES FOX-DAVIES.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PROSPECTUS.

It is intended to publish in the year 1894 the first issue of the above Book, which it is hoped will subsequently appear annually; and this the Editor and Publishers believe will be the first attempt to collect in an available form a Compendium of all Armorial Bearings legitimately in use and a complete Index of all people who are genuinely entitled to bear them. It is hardly expected that in the first issue every armigerous person will be included within the covers of the Volume, but no efforts will be spared to render the lists as complete and perfect as may be possible, and the Work so carried out must very shortly be within measurable distance of being perfect. With this end in view, and for the love and for the sake of genuine Armory as opposed to the bogus and the maliciously corrupt insignia so often displayed, the Editor confidently asks and will be grateful for the assistance and countenance of all those who do of right bear Arms. The Book will not be issued under the authority or control of the College; but in order to obtain the highest and most authentic information upon these points the Editor wishes it to be understood that he undertakes that all Armorial Bearings will be examined by some Officer of the College of Arms, with the exception of the Scottish Armorial Bearings, which will in all cases be submitted to and verified by the authorities of Lyon Office; whilst due reference will be made to Ulster's Office as to the accuracy of Irish Arms.

Engraved Plates of Armorial Bearings, taken in every case from the original records, will be inserted in the Volume, to the number of Six or Seven Hundred. While all the information which can be obtained on the points comprised within the scope of the Work, as above set forth, will be duly inserted therein, the Engravings will be confined to the authorized Arms, Insignia, and Heraldic decorations of those people who shall subscribe for the first issue of 'ARMORIAL FAMILIES' (in one or other of the two styles) prior to its publication. These Illustrations will be duly inserted year by year so long as they remain valid and correct in all their details. The Editor reserves to himself, however, the right of deciding in what manner, subject to acknowledged precedents, the Arms shall be displayed in the engravings.

"We have now before us both the completion of the second series and the initial part of a new series, to be issued quarterly, of our old friend Dr. Jackson Howard's valuable publication. With regard to the new departure, we are at one with those of Dr. Howard's supporters who appear to have suggested the desirableness of such a change. We believe the zealous editor will find his hand more free for dealing with the varied matter which must constantly be coming before him, and that alone will, we should say, be a considerable relief to him. The last volume of the second series contains many interesting grants of arms, pedigrees, and genealogical memoranda, illustrating the family history of the United Kingdom abroad as well as at home. The monumental inscriptions which continue from time to time to appear in Misc. Gen. et Her., illustrating, as they do, not only the mother country, but also our colonies and various continental places resorted to by our countrymen, are all the more valuable from the circumstance of their covering so wide an area. An inscription from Venice, from Wiesbaden, or from the 'vexed Bermoothes' may at any moment come in most happily to supply a gap in some record of a British family. And it is pleasant to meet with such historic characters as Gilbert Sheldon and John Evelyn in the pages of Dr. Howard's Miscellanea. We wish all prosperity to the third series, so ably opened with the March quarter of the present year."

Arms and Quarterings of Charles, Viscount Cullen.

These arms and quarterings, surmounted with the (open) coronet of a Viscount, and encircled with a similar entourage, will be found in the engraving of the monument of "Sir William Cokain" (who died 1626) in Dugdale's 'History of St. Paul's Cathedral.' The inscription (which matches them, on the other side of the sheet) is "P. M. Patris chariss. posuit Carolus, Vice Comes Cullen."

They refer therefore to Charles Cokayne, created Viscount Cullen 11 August 1642, who died in June 1661 at Rushton Hall, co. Northampton, in his 60th year, having inherited that estate (and other very considerable ones) from his said father. He married 24 June 1627 (at St. Giles in the Fields) the Lady Mary O'Brien, eldest daughter and coheir of Henry, 5th Earl of Thomond. This lady was buried 31 May 1686 (with her said husband) at St. Peter's, Rushton. Ever since her death her son and the succeeding Viscounts Cullen invariably quartered the arms of O'Brien with those of Cokayne.

The blazon of the coat of 7 quarters is as under:—

1. Arg., 3 cocks, gu., armed, crested, and legged, sa.; for Cokayne.
2. Arg., 2 bars, vert; for Herthull.
3. Or, on a fess, between 4 fleur de lis, gu., two fleur de lis, of the field; for Deyville.
4. Arg., 6 lioncels rampant, 3, 2, and 1, sa.; a crescent for difference, gu.; for Savage.
5. Arg., a fess between three crescents, gu.; for Rossington.
6. Arg., a chevron, gu., between three horse shoes, sa.; for Edensor.
7. Arg., three stags, statant, sa.; for (—).

These seven coats, as above, will be found in the funeral certificate of Sir William Cokayne, 1626, and in that of his father another William Cokayne in 1599, both of which are given in Mis. Gen. et Her., Second Series, Vol. IV., pp. 104-105.

By the match of Edmond Cokayne, of Ashbourne, co. Derby (slain at the battle of Shrewsbury in 1403), with Elizabeth Herthull, heiress of that family, the quartering of Herthull, of Pooley in Polesworth, co. Warwick, was brought into the Cokayne family, temp. Ric. II. The other quarterings were brought into the Herthull family in the following order: [1] Edensor, of Baddesley Edensor, or Ensor, co. Warwick, which family probably brought in the coat ("Arg., 3 stags, statant, sa.") that follows next to it; [2] Deyville; [3] Savage, bringing in [4] Rossington, of Youlgrave, co. Derby. There remains then the last quartering, "Arg., 3 stags, statant, sa.," but of this coat the name is unknown. It has been conjectured that it is another coat for Herthull, the 3 stags or harts making a punning coat on that name. Had the position of it been next to the Herthull coat (Arg., 2 bars, vert) this might possibly have been the case, but, placed as it is, it seems more like a coat brought in by Edensor, one of whose alliances was with "Alicia, Lady of Derley," to whom probably it may be attributed. The coat of Cokayne with these 6 quarterings (always arranged in the order represented in the shield above) appears in the Visitation of Derbyshire, 1611, on the Cokayne monuments at Ashbourne, as well as on that of the Lord Mayor at St. Paul's, and in the funeral certificates above mentioned.

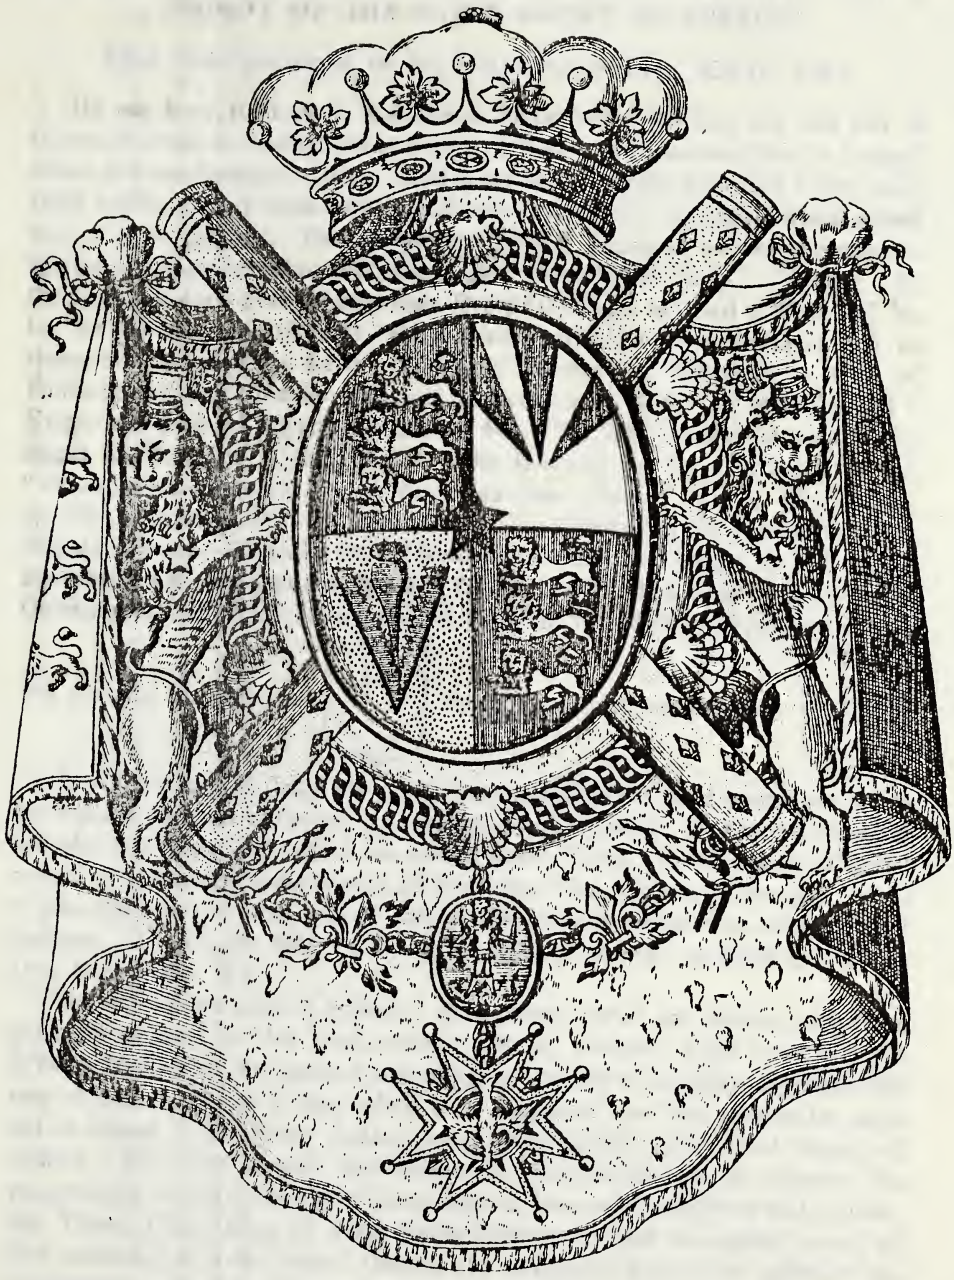
ARMS AND QUARTERINGS OF CHARLES, VISCOUNT CULLEN



BOOKPLATE OF CHARLES O'BRIEN AS EARL OF THOMOND IN IRELAND

Bookplate of Charles O'Brien

AS EARL OF THOMOND IN IRELAND, FIELD-MARSHAL, AND A KNIGHT OF THE SAINT ESPRIT OF FRANCE.

From the Collection of Sir Wollaston Franks, K.C.B., P.S.A.

He was born 1699 at St. Germain-en-Laye, being the only son and heir of Charles O'Brien, the second son of Daniel (O'Brien), 3rd Viscount Clare in Ireland, whose title was forfeited in 1691. Had it not been so forfeited his said father, since 1693, and he himself, since 1706, would have enjoyed that Viscountcy which indeed each of them assumed. He distinguished himself greatly in various engagements against the English, and in 1735 was made "Mareschal-du-Camp" of France. By the death, 20 April 1741, of his cousin Henry (O'Brien), 8th Earl of Thomond, he, but for the attainder of 1691, would have succeeded to this Earldom, and he thenceforth assumed the same. He was in command at Dettingen in 1743, at Fontenoy and Landshut in 1745, and at Roucoux in 1746. He was admitted a Knight of the Saint Esprit of France 2 Feb. 1746, and installed as such in the chapel at Versailles 1 Jan. 1747.* The following is his description in the "Catalogue des Chevaliers, etc. de l'ordre du Saint Esprit," MDCCLX. [Paris, folio, pp. 568], "Charles O'Brien, Mylord-Comte de Thomond, Lord-Vicomte de Clare, Pair du Royaume d'Irlande, etc.; Lieutenant Général des Armées du Roi, depuis Maréchal de France. Admis, dès le 2 Fevrier 1746." The arms there given are Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Gu., 3 lions passant, guardant, in pale, party per pale, or and arg.; 2nd a coat as here depicted and 3rd a coat as here depicted

It will be observed that if the pheon (so to call it) in the third quarter reached to the top, the structure of the two last coats would be identical. May we not therefore consider that this pheon (which has always been a "crux" in the coat of O'Brien) is only an (ill-drawn) reduplication of the former coat, it being in one case "Arg., 3 piles conjoined in base, gules," and in the other the same coat, with different tinctures, i.e. with the field "or" and the charge "azure," as borne in 1370 by Guy, Lord Bryan, K.G.

The well-known arms of Sydney, "Or, a pheon, azure," are identical with those generally depicted in this third quarter. It is, however, quite clear that the O'Brien family were not entitled, according to the laws of heraldry, to quarter the coat of Sydney, though it has indeed been suggested that they assumed the same out of respect to Sir Henry Sydney, many times (1557—1578) Lord Deputy of Ireland. That they should thus honour the English Viceroy, by adopting his paternal coat as one of their own quarterings, is, however, a somewhat wild surmise. Mr. Vicars, Ulster King of Arms, kindly informs me that the earliest record of this quartering is in the time of Carney, who was Ulster King in the middle of the seventeenth century, that "there are plenty of allusions to this coat as a quartering of Lord Thomond, but no mention of it as that of Sydney until we come to the Lords' entries (i., p. 67), dated 1721, where the quarterings are given as 1st and 4th, O'Bryen or O'Brien; 2nd, O'Bryan; 3rd, Sydney." He adds that "in one of the seventeenth century references this coat is given as Azure, a pheon, arg." Whether the coat should, or should not, be a pheon is doubtless questionable, but (granting it so to be) it is extremely improbable (pace the "Lords' entries," as above) that it should be the coat of Sydney, and not that of O'Brien or some other Irish family whom the O'Briens represented.

The blazon of the coat of arms in the bookplate is as follows, viz. Within a collar of the order of the Saint Esprit, Quarterly, 1st and 4th, Gu., 3 lions, passant, guardant, in pale, party per pale, or and arg., being apparently arms, founded on the Royal Coat of England, of the O'Briens as Princes or Kings of Thomond; 2nd, Ary., 3 piles, conjoined in base, gu., for the old coat of Brien; 3rd, Or, a pheon, azure [rectius, perhaps, "Or, 3 piles conjoined in base, azure," see above] for apparently another coat of Brien. In the centre point of the whole, a mullet for difference. Supporters: Two lions guardant, party per fess, or and ary., each ensigned with a mullet for difference. Behind the shield two golden batons in saltire, being the insignia of a Field-Marshal of France. The whole within a mantle of estate, surmounted with the coronet of an Earl.

It will be seen that the form of this coronet is somewhat unusual, the 4 strawberry leaves being as, or nearly as, high as the 5 pearls which are at the top of the points. The coronet for an Earl so drawn (though without the cushion) is, however, to be found in Milles's 'Catalogue of Honour,' 1610. With respect to the mark of cadency, i.e. the mullet, which, as being that of the third house had been used by the Viscounts Clare, this mark ought no doubt to have been discarded in 1741 when this branch became the head of the illustrious house of O'Brien, and it was probably merely from inadvertence that it was allowed to remain.

The same arms seem to have been used to stamp the covers of his books; see Guigard, 2nd ed., ii., p. 384, who says that the stamp is excessively rare.

The "Mareschal Count de Thomond" (as he was generally called) died at Montpellier 9 Sep. 1761, aged 62, and was succeeded by his son Charles O'Brien, who died under age and unmarried at Paris, 29 Dec. 1774, when the Earldom of Thomond and Barony of Ibrackan, both created in 1543, as also the Viscountcy of Clare and Barony of Moyarta, both created in 1662 (all of which honours were, however, under attainder), became extinct.

PEDIGREE OF VINCENT. (Vide pages 10—13.)

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

The present Rector of Kibworth, Leicestershire, very kindly says that the Rev. William Vincent was buried at Kibworth 16 January 1744. George Vincent son of George Vincent and Elizabeth (Haly) was of Colney Hatch, and died 3 May 1757, aged 67, and his wife Ann (Stonard) died 21 September 1752, aged 56. These two dates are recorded on a stone in the churchyard at Friern Barnet. Francis Vincent son of George Vincent and Ann (Stonard) died 20 December 1766, aged 40, and his widow Mercy, daughter of the Rev. Dormer Sheldon of Abberton, Worcestershire, married firstly Thomas Adderley of Weddington Hall, Warwickshire, and died 18 October 1791 at Worcester. Francis Vincent and his wife Mercy (Sheldon) had four daughters—namely, Ann wife of the Rev. Thomas Rainsford, in 1791 of Powick, Worcestershire, Lucy, Mercy, and Margaret. Their brother Dormer Vincent appears to have been a Captain in the 38th Regiment, and to have died at Bath in December 1806. I am indebted to Mrs Randal F. Tongue-Croxall of Shustoke, Coleshill, for some information as to the family of Croxall. Giles Vincent was father of William Vincent, D.D., Dean of Westminster 1802 to 1815.

Reviews.

Records of the Cust Family of Pinchbeck, Stamford, and Belton in Lincolnshire. Part I. Compiled by Lady ELIZABETH CUST. London: Mitchell and Hughes.

THIS Work is mainly compiled from existing title-deeds and other papers at Belton House, Grantham. The Part now issued contains the history of the Custs of Pinchbeck in Lincolnshire, and of the families with whom they intermarried. Lady Elizabeth Cust is a model writer of family history: having carefully studied her evidences, she briefly and well summarizes these in narrative form, and at the end of each chapter gives an Appendix consisting of the deeds, wills, extracts from registers, etc., upon which her text is founded. Only a very few copies of this Part will be obtainable. Application for copies should be made to the publishers, who have permission to issue it to subscribers.

The Registers of Bramfield, co. Suffolk, 1539—1596 and 1693—1889. Edited by THOMAS S. HILL, B.C.L., M.A., Rector of Thorington, Suffolk. London: Mitchell and Hughes.

THE printing of Parish Registers may possibly some day in the future be numbered among the duties of the State: meantime, thanks to the Harleian Society, whose Register Section is well known to genealogists generally, and thanks also to various gentlemen who are alive to the importance of the preservation of parish registers, numerous volumes are being issued. The Rev. Thomas S. Hill, having previously edited 'The Registers of the Parish of Thorington,' of which parish he is Rector, next turned his attention to the 'Registers of Bramfield.' "These Registers," says Mr. Hill, in his Preface, "suffer in the same way as do those of other parishes in this neighbourhood by the loss of their second book 1596—1693 circ." A serious loss from a genealogical point of view; but, continues Mr. Hill, "I have added notices from the old book of Churchwardens' Accounts, so that, inter alia, the names of the residents may be noted, together with some notice of the parochial events of the time." The extracts from the Accounts are of much interest. Under the year 1655 appears the following "Mem.":—"Whare as thare was collected in this Parrish the sume of seaven shillings and twopence for y^e^ relief of the people of Glascow which being not demanded & Remayneing in the Churchwardens hands was by the Consent of the Churchwardens & overseers & others the Inhabitants given vnto Edmond Ellis in the time of his sickness & greate wante." Why the "canny Scots" of Glasgow did not "demand" the 7s. 2d. will probably remain a mystery, but, be it noted, even so great a city as Glasgow can add to its history from parish records written far from the banks of classic Clyde. The Registers have been carefully edited, and a copious Index affords ready reference to all entries. Only sixty copies of the Work are at the disposal of Register collectors, and to secure them early application to the publishers is necessary.

Ecclesiastical Heraldry. By the Rev. JOHN WOODWARD, LL.D., F.S.A. Scot. London and Edinburgh: W. and A. K. Johnston.

THIS Work deals with Heraldry from an Ecclesiastical point of view, and gives information about the Armorial Insignia of Episcopal Sees, Abbeys, Religious Foundations, and Communities, at home and abroad. It also indicates the various manners in which Ecclesiastics of different grades have borne their Arms and combined their personal with their official Insignia; and fully describes those ornaments and external additions to the shield by which Ecclesiastical Ranks have been, and are, distinguished. Coloured plates shew the Arms of English, Scottish, Irish, and Colonial Sees, and Arms of Popes, Cardinals, Archbishops, Bishops, etc. Black and white plates shew Mitres, Helmets, Seals, etc.

Wingfield Memorials. Compiled by MERVYN EDWARD, SEVENTH VISCOUNT POWERSCOURT. London: Mitchell and Hughes.

THIS magnificent Work—an extra large quarto, 14 × 17, bound in cloth, with the Wingfield Arms in gold on side—has just been completed. It consists of a pedigree, "fiated" by the College of Arms, several chapters of Wingfield family history, and an Appendix containing, inter alia, an interesting narrative of the execution of Mary, Queen of Scots. The book is illustrated with upward of fifty plates of monuments, deeds, portraits, and views. A limited number of copies of the Work are offered to subscribers, for which application should be made direct to Viscount Powerscourt, 65 Brook Street, Grosvenor Square, London, W. A copy of the Work is on view to intending subscribers at the establishment of Messrs. Mitchell and Hughes, 140 Wardour Street, W.

Manners, Customs, and History of the Highlands of Scotland. Historical Account of the Clan MacGregor. Both by Sir WALTER SCOTT, Bart. Glasgow: Thomas D. Morison. London: Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent, and Co.

THE following "Advertisement" appears on page x of this book:—"These two little-known works of Sir Walter Scott's were originally published in the Quarterly Review, and have seldom been republished." There are Gregors and MacGregors scattered all over the world, and among them there are doubtless many who take interest in the history of their clan: they cannot do better than secure a copy of this book, which, beginning with "Gregor, or Gregorius, third son, it is said, of Alpin, King of Scots, who flourished about 787," traces the story of the MacGregors, generation after generation, down to the days of the celebrated "Rob Roy MacGregor," who "was the younger son of Donald MacGregor of Glengyle, said to have been a Lieutenant-Colonel (probably in the service of James II.), by his wife, a daughter of Campbell of Glenfalloch" (page 135). The career of "Rob Roy" is recorded at considerable length. "This singular man died in bed in his own house, in the parish of Balquhidder. He was buried in the churchyard of the same parish, where his tombstone is only distinguished by a rude attempt at the figure of a broadsword" (page 181). Chapter VIII., according to the Contents, deals with the "MacGregors in the Rising of 1845" [rectius 1745]—"at the Battle of Prestonpans—at the Battle of Culloden," etc. The book contains much valuable information regarding the Highlands of Scotland.

Collectanea Cantiana: or, Archæological Researches in the Neighbourhood of Sittingbourne, and other parts of Kent. By GEORGE PAYNE, F.L.S., F.S.A. Illustrated by Photo-Zincographs from the Author's Drawings. London: Mitchell and Hughes.

THIS volume should be secured by all interested in Kentish Archæology. It is a well-written book, and contains a mine of information, not accessible elsewhere.

The Journal of the Ex Libris Society. Vol. IV., Parts 4, 5, and 6. London: A. and C. Black, Soho Square, W.

A SPECIAL feature of 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' during its entire career, has been the publication, at intervals, of early, rare, and curious bookplates; thus fostering a taste for their collection and study, which of late years has increased so largely that it became necessary that bookplate collectors should form themselves into a Society and possess a magazine devoted exclusively to their particular interests: hence the existence of the 'Journal of the Ex Libris

Society,' which, with its emblematic wrapper, presents a decidedly unique appearance among the serials of the day. On the occasion of the Third Annual Meeting of the Society, held in London on the 14th February last, an interesting collection of bookplates and Heraldic curiosities was exhibited at St. Martin's Hall, and Parts 4 and 5 of the 'Journal' contain particulars of the exhibits and names of the exhibitors. "On the Processes for the Production of Ex Libris" is an instructive article by Mr. John Vinycomb, M.R.I.A. "The Hungerford Bookplate," an excellent representation of which forms the frontispiece to Part 6, has an interesting history, which is well told by Mr. J. Whitmarsh. "Bookplate Identification" is a new feature of the Society's work initiated in Part 6, in which eleven "nameless plates" are reproduced for identification. Several examples of early and modern bookplates appear in each Part: the fine Flemish plate of Charles Bonaventure, Count Vander Noot, by J. Harrewyn, of Brussels, dated 1723, reproduced as frontispiece to Part 5, well represents the old school, and the bookplate of the Plymouth Free Public Library, designed by Mr. W. H. Foster, of Plymouth, is a fine specimen of present-day productions.

LITERARY NOTES.

An important manuscript has been secured by Mr. George Gregory, of Bath, for the apparently absurd figure of eighteen guineas. The Work consists of twenty-four volumes, the result of nearly forty years of arduous labour by the late J. H. Sperling, who personally collected all his material. The MS. deals in a remarkably full manner with the heraldry and archæology of the South of England. There are upward of forty thousand shields and coats of arms, all of which are beautifully illuminated in colours, many of them being full-page (quarto), copied from painted glass and monuments in the various counties represented, and accompanied by genealogical notes, heraldic descriptions, and indices of arms, churches, and parishes.

In the annual report of the Curators of the Bodleian Library, the chief item of general interest refers to the Shelley manuscripts and other memorials, one of the most important gifts received by the library for many years. It was made by Jane, Lady Shelley, the poet's daughter-in-law, and consisted partly of volumes given under conditions as to inspection and copying which had been accepted by the curators in 1892, but chiefly of volumes given unconditionally. The former section consists of MS. letters of Shelley, his second wife, and others, together with two printed volumes, which contain the journal-book of Shelley and his second wife, letters from and to them, and other biographical documents. The latter section, of which, agreeably to Lady Shelley's wishes, a considerable part is permanently exhibited in the library, consists of ten autograph manuscripts of the poet, three volumes of his printed works, the Sophocles found in his hand after death, and two copies of portraits of him.

After the death, in 1861, of the Rev. Joseph Hunter, F.S.A., the Historian of Hallamshire and South Yorkshire, a large number of his manuscripts became the property of the British Museum. The most important of these is by Genealogists considered to be Add. MS. 24,458, which is entitled "Familiæ Minorum Gentium." The Council of the Harleian Society decided to print it in full, considering that the members and others interested in Genealogy should have the opportunity of always being able to obtain the information it contains. The Work will be in four volumes, and the Index will be included in the last one. Volume I. has been ably edited by Mr. John W. Clay, F.S.A., who has not only carefully compared the transcript made for the Society with the original, as well as all the proof-sheets, but has also in footnotes supplied entries from the Northowram and other Parish Registers throwing light on the various pedigrees, and correcting manifest errors. The volume has just been issued to the members of the Society, and the second volume is now in the Press, under the same competent editorship. Hunter's pedigrees, it is believed, will be of much interest to American genealogists, including, as they do, one shewing the descent of George Washington, their great General and first President, and others who emigrated from England to America and there founded families.

Mr. Charles Welch, the Librarian at Guildhall, is preparing a full account of the old City Bridges, compiled from records hitherto unsearched by antiquarian historians. The work will include an account of the new Tower Bridge to be opened on the 30th instant by the Prince of Wales.

'Fenland Notes and Queries' (Peterborough: Geo. C. Caster) and 'Leicestershire and Rutland Notes and Queries' (Leicester: J. and T. Spencer), two quarterlies of good standing and of much local value, may with profit be consulted by genealogists and antiquarians far removed from the confines of the districts in which they are issued.

Announcement is made of the intended publication of the Registers of All Saints' Church, Newcastle-upon-Tyne. The Prospectus is signed by Owen Charles Carr, Vicar, and W. Lindsey, Churchwarden, to the latter of whom, at All Saints' Vestry, Newcastle-on-Tyne, all enquiries and orders should be addressed. The Registers of the ancient Parish Church of All Saints', Newcastle-on-Tyne, date back to the year 1600, and relate to very many, if not all, the most distinguished families in the county of Northumberland, and it has been suggested that the publication of them would meet an expressed want. Their records would thus be rescued from obscurity, be easy of reference, and afford interest and information to the descendants of old county families, and to many others interested in the history of the city of Newcastle-upon-Tyne and the county of Northumberland.

The William Salt Archæological Society, founded for printing documents relating to the county of Stafford, and which is well worthy of being better patronized by London archæologists and genealogists than it is, has just issued to its members Vol. XIV. of its Transactions, comprising "Extracts from the Plea Rolls of the Reign of Edward III." and "Military Service performed by Staffordshire Tenants, temp. Richard II." This paper is very interesting in narrating how the combined fleets of France and Spain ravaged the south coast of England, taking possession of the Isle of Wight; they then burned Hastings and Rye, but were beaten off at Winchelsea. A few weeks later the men of the Cinque Ports retaliated, landing in Normandy, and recovered the church bells of Rye, which had been carried off by the French. There are also given accounts of services rendered by Staffordshire men in the war with Scotland, 1385, and of the challenges sent by the French knights to the English officers for tourneys to be held with them in the neighbourhood of Calais between 1389 and 1391, after the truce between England and France, some of the fights being very interesting, and attested by Froissart with the names of the French knights and English esquires. The Work is edited by the indefatigable Honorary Secretary, Major-General the Hon. George Wrottesley, and is excellently printed and bound by Messrs. Harrison and Sons.

Colonel Philip Doyle Vigors, High Sheriff of county Carlow, was found dead in his bed on Monday, June 11, at his residence, Holloden, Bagnalstown. Colonel Vigors, a very popular magistrate, was a member of the Royal Society of Antiquaries and of the Harleian Society, and much devoted to local research.

Armorial Families.

COMPILED AND EDITED BY ARTHUR CHARLES FOX-DAVIES.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PROSPECTUS.

It is intended to publish in the year 1894 the first issue of the above Book, which it is hoped will subsequently appear annually; and this the Editor and Publishers believe will be the first attempt to collect in an available form a Compendium of all Armorial Bearings legitimately in use and a complete Index of all people who are genuinely entitled to bear them. It is hardly expected that in the first issue every armigerous person will be included within the covers of the Volume, but no efforts will be spared to render the lists as complete and perfect as may be possible, and the Work so carried out must very shortly be within measurable distance of being perfect. With this end in view, and for the love and for the sake of genuine Armory as opposed to the bogus and the maliciously corrupt insignia so often displayed, the Editor confidently asks and will be grateful for the assistance and countenance of all those who do of right bear Arms. The Book will not be issued under the authority or control of the College; but in order to obtain the highest and most authentic information upon these points the Editor wishes it to be understood that he undertakes that all Armorial Bearings will be examined by some Officer of the College of Arms, with the exception of the Scottish Armorial Bearings, which will in all cases be submitted to and verified by the authorities of Lyon Office; whilst due reference will be made to Ulster's Office as to the accuracy of Irish Arms.

Engraved Plates of Armorial Bearings, taken in every case from the original records, will be inserted in the Volume, to the number of Six or Seven Hundred. While all the information which can be obtained on the points comprised within the scope of the Work, as above set forth, will be duly inserted therein, the Engravings will be confined to the authorized Arms, Insignia, and Heraldic decorations of those people who shall subscribe for the first issue of 'ARMORIAL FAMILIES' (in one or other of the two styles) prior to its publication. These Illustrations will be duly inserted year by year so long as they remain valid and correct in all their details. The Editor reserves to himself, however, the right of deciding in what manner, subject to acknowledged precedents, the Arms shall be displayed in the engravings.

Extract from 'Notes and Queries,' No. 127, Eighth Series, June 2, 1894.

"We have now before us both the completion of the second series and the initial part of a new series, to be issued quarterly, of our old friend Dr. Jackson Howard's valuable publication. With regard to the new departure, we are at one with those of Dr. Howard's supporters who appear to have suggested the desirableness of such a change. We believe the zealous editor will find his hand more free for dealing with the varied matter which must constantly be coming before him, and that alone will, we should say, be a considerable relief to him. The last volume of the second series contains many interesting grants of arms, pedigrees, and genealogical memoranda, illustrating the family history of the United Kingdom abroad as well as at home. The monumental inscriptions which continue from time to time to appear in Misc. Gen. et Her., illustrating, as they do, not only the mother country, but also our colonies and various continental places resorted to by our countrymen, are all the more valuable from the circumstance of their covering so wide an area. An inscription from Venice, from Wiesbaden, or from the 'vexed Bermoothes' may at any moment come in most happily to supply a gap in some record of a British family. And it is pleasant to meet with such historic characters as Gilbert Sheldon and John Evelyn in the pages of Dr. Howard's Miscellanea. We wish all prosperity to the third series, so ably opened with the March quarter of the present year."

Chancery Proceedings (Eliz., H., h 10, No. 50). Bill dated 25 June 1588.

HUNSDEN v. BINGLEY.

Complainant Henry, Lord Hunsden, was and is seised in his demesne as of fee of the manor and lordship of Conesbrough, co. Ebor. One Raffe Levytt, late of Melton, co. York, gent., dec^{d}, was in his lifetime seised in his demesne as of fee of divers messnages and ten'ts in Cusworth, held of the said manor of Conesbrough by knight service, viz. by homage, fealty, and escuage, and by suit of court, and by the yearly rent of ten pence. The said Raffe demised to William Byngley & William Walker certain of the said premises for divers years yet enduring, reserving to himself & his heirs a certain annual rent.

The said Raffe Levett died at Melton 3 Jan. 24 Eliz. having issue of his body one Thomas Levett an infant under the age of 21 years, being about the age of 10 years, his son & heir, by reason whereof the marriage, custody, and wardship of the body of the said Thomas as well as of his lands in Cusworth doth belong to the compt. who by his officer seized the body of the said Thomas and entered into the lands at Cusworth.

The said William Bynglcy refuses to shew his lease or pay his rent. Compt. prays for discovery and payment of the said rent.

Answer of William Bynglcy dated 31 May 30 Eliz. :

The defendant saith that the Bill of Complaint is "very vncrten, vntrue, & insufficient in the lawe" as it does not express certainly what messuages and lands were held by the said Ranf Levyt in Cnssworth.

Long time before the said Ranf had anything in the said premises, one William Levyt and Elizabeth his wife were thereof seised in their demesne as of fee in the right of the said Elizabeth, and being so seised, afterwards, viz. in Easter Term 3 Eliz., a fine was, amongst other things thereof, levied in the Court of Common Pleas between one Thomas Wentworthe and Thomas Fretwell, compts., and the said William Levyt and his wife, deforciants, by which fine the said premises were acknowledged to be the right of the said Thomas Wentworth, as that which the said Thomas Wentworth & Thomas Fretwell had of the gift of the said William and Elizabeth, and the same remised and quitclaimed from the said William and Elizabeth & their heirs to the said Thomas & Thomas & their heirs for ever. And the said Thomas Wentworthe and Thomas Fretwell by the same granted to the said William & Elizabeth the said premises for their lives and for the life of the longer liver of them, and after the death of the said William and Elizabeth the said premises to remain to one Nicholas Levyt, son & heir of the said William & Elizabeth, for life, and after the death of the said Nicholas the said premises to remain to the said Ranf Levyt & his heirs, and if the said Ranf Levyt should die without heirs then the said premises to remain to Anne Levyt and Jane Levet, daus. of the said Nicholas Levyt & their heirs, and in default of such, then to the right heirs of the aforesaid Elizabeth Levyt for ever.

The said William and Elizabeth died about twelve years past, and the said Nicholas being seised of the same premises for life with remr to the said Ranf, the said Nicholas by conveyance (c. 19 Eliz.) conveyed the same to the said Ranf reserving an annual rent of 20 marks during his own lifetime. And the said Ranf Levyt died so seised at whose death the premises descended to Thomas Levyt, son & heir of the said Ranf. The said Nicholas Levyt is yet living at Doncaster, and the said yearly rent hath been paid to him in part payment of the yearly rent of 20 marks reserved to him without the defendant's knowledge that the said Ranf Levyt held divers messuages and lands in Cnssworth as of the compts. manor of Conesbrough.

P.R.O.—14 Car. I., pt. i., No. 153. Ebor. Writ dated 16 June 14 Car. I.

(Original in Latin.)

Inquisition taken 1 Nov. 14 Car. I. [1638] on the death of William Levet late of Bentley, co. York, gentleman, decd, by oath of Robert Slyman, gent., Ralph Fretwell, gent., William Misterton, Nicholas Saunderson, Richard Foster, Robert Kirke, Robert Bailes, George Elwes, Robert Elwes, William Scolefeild, Thomas Nell, William Hole, and Thomas Hudson.

Who say that the said William Levet was seised in his lordship as of fee, of 4 acres of meadow in the common fields of Bentley and Arkesay, co. York (late purchased by the said William Levet of Thomas Levet late of Melton on the hill, co. York, esquire, and now of Tixover, co. Rutland), lately called Wentworth Lands, and of a rent of two shillings yearly arising out of certain lands and meadows in Bentley, and of one close of meadow called "Running dike close" in the lordship and parish of Bentley and Arkesay, and of one close or pasture commonly known as "Buskinge," lying in Bentley and Arkesay, all formerly known as Wentworth lands and purchased of the said Thomas Levet, esquire, and of various arable, pasture, and meadow lands in Bentley, formerly in the tenure of Richard Fletcher, and of 30 acres of land and pasture in the parish of Kirkeby, co. York, in the tenure of Richard Fletcher, etc.

The said William Levet made his last Will and Testament 14 May 1638 as follows: "I William Levet of Bentley in the parish of Arkesay and diocesse of Yorke, gentl'." "I give .... vnto my cozen Thomas Levet sonne of Robert Levet my brother All my arrable lands, meadowe, and pasture .... in the Lordshipp of Bentley and parishe of Arkesay."

The said William Levet died 16 May 1638. The aforesaid Thomas Levet of Tixover, co. Rutland, esquire, is his kinsman and next heir, that is to say the son & heir of Thomas Levet late of Melton on the hill, co. York, gent., dec^{d}, late the eldest brother of William and Robert Levet, the sons of Ralph Levet formerly of Melton, gent., dec^{d}, and he was of the age of forty and three years on the day of the death of the said William Levet.

Chancery Proceedings, 1649—1714, Bund. 17. (Bridges.) 9 Feb. 1653.

WHITTAKERS v. LEVET. Answer only.

Answer of John Levet, Doctor of Lawes, one of the def'ts to the Bill of Thomas Whittakers' compt.

This def't did about the time mentioned in the Bill believe that he was seised of the Capital Messuage & lands expressed in the said Bill as in fee, for he did not know that M^{r} Emanuell Mote had mortgaged any part of them to the def't M^{r} Thomas Fitzwilliams, and def't believeth that John Whittakers the compts. father was then privy to the said mortgage. The def't leased the lands, etc., to the said John Whittakers who continued as tenant till such time as Doctor Berrie got his interest in it. The def't upon trust and agreement with the said Doctor Berrie ("then a great professor of his love to the Levets for M^{r} Thomas Levets sake to whom he acknowledged himself behoulden for the greatest p'te of his fortunes") did make a conveyance of his manors & lands in Melton upon the Hill, co. York, part being the said messuage & lands, & also of other lands in Cadby, Wildthorpe, & Bentley, worth about 30^{l} or 40^{l} yearly, unto him the said D^{r} Berrie for the securing of what money he had lent the def't or his brother Thomas Levet which loans were about 3300^{l}, and for the purchase of the s^{d} manors & lands in Melton only the def't had 10,000^{l} proffered him by Arthur Ingram the elder, as also by S^{r} John Melton, and indeed had sold them to the latter but afterwards because he could not get in his monies the said S^{r} John desisted from perfecting the purchase. Afterwards the s^{d} D^{r} Berrie, contrary to the trust reposed in him, enrolled the conveyance & endeavoured to eject this def't before his death. And John Fountaine, esq., hath since ejected this def't and prosecutes the suit in the name of the compt., etc., etc.

Pedigree of the Family of Donne of Mattishall, co. Norfolk.*

The following additions and corrections to the Pedigree of 1792 may be made :—

Page 330. "Descended from the family of the celebrated Dr. Donne." This is not proved. Southey ('Life of Cowper,' vol. i., p. 4) asserts that Cowper's mother was a direct descendant of the Dean of St. Paul's, and the 'Dictionary of National Biography,' in the article on William Bodham Donne, repeats the statement, but it does not appear that Dr. Donne, who died in 1631, was connected with Norfolk. His will, printed in the 'Genealogist,' New Series, vi., 52, makes no mention of the county. William Donne of Letheringsett, father of Roger Donne of Ludham, was born about 1645, and there was a Thomas Donne of Holt who died in 1660.

Mary, wife of William Donne of Letheringsett, was probably of the family of Flint, as the arms of Flint (Sable, on a chevron engrailed or, between three crescents ermine, two lions combatant gules) are impaled with his on his gravestone.

Catharine, wife of Roger Donne of Ludham, and daughter of Bruin Clench of St. Martin's in the Fields, Citizen of London, was of Royal descent. Her mother was Catharine, da. of William Hippisley of Throughley, co. Sussex, by Catharine, da. of John Pellatt, Esq. (son and heir of Sir Benjamin Pellatt of Bolney, co. Sussex, Knt.), by Anne, da. of Thomas West, Lord Delawarr, by Anne, da. of Sir Francis Knollys, K.G., by Catharine, da. of William Carey, Esq., by Mary, da. of Thomas Boleyne, Earl of Wilts, and sister of Queen Anne Boleyne, descended by several lines from Edward I.

Elizabeth (Donne), wife of Thomas Hewitt, died 20 June 1796. He died 9 March 1801 s.p. Both buried at Mattishall.

Anne (Vertue), wife of the Rev. Castres Donne, died 2 December 1839 ; buried at Hempnall, co. Norfolk.

Thomas Bodham died 20 June 1796, aged 58. His widow Ann (Donne), to whom—"my cousin Ann Bodham"—Cowper dedicated his "Lines on the receipt of my mother's picture out of Norfolk," died 3 January 1846, aged 97. Both buried at Mattishall.

Anna Maria (Barnwell), widow of William Donne, Esq., of Heigham Lodge, died 10 July 1819, aged 83 ; buried at Mattishall.

The Registers of the Parish Church of All Saints, Maidstone, Kent.

These Registers are continuous, with the exception of a break in the reign of Queen Mary, and considerable irregularity during the Commonwealth.

When it is remembered that, in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, Allington Castle, the Mote, the Palace, Bucklands, Chillington House, and other neighbouring Manor-houses were in the possession of the Wyats, the Woodvilles, the Tuftons, the Astleys, the Knatchbulls, the Marshams, and other families of note, and that Maidstone was all that time the most influential town in the County, and there are still living representatives of the families of Beale, Poste, Whatman, Francklyn, Smythe, Barham, Green, Hills, and many others, whose names are of frequent occurrence in these Registers—it is hardly necessary to point out how vast a store of historical and genealogical interest and importance must be lying buried here, only waiting to be brought to light; and what an irreparable loss would be sustained by those interested in the genealogy of Kent were a fire to break out at Maidstone, and destroy the Parish Records, as occurred at Erith, where most valuable documents perished.

It has been arranged that the MARRIAGE REGISTER shall be transcribed for publication in 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' under the Editorship of the Rev. J. CAVE-BROWNE, the first instalment of which will appear in Part V., to be issued in March 1895.

viri, urbanâ morum sanctitate,
non jocundi minus quam utilis,
qui omnigenâ literaturâ penè ad invidium imbutus,

Uxorem duxit Aloisiam, Gulielmi Meggs, celeberrimi

Cure of the Miser's wish, and coward's fear,
Death only shews us what we knew was near.
With courage therefore view th'appointed hour,
Dread not death's anger, but expect his power.
Nor nature's law with useless sorrow mourn,
But die, O mortal man, for thou wast born.

Reviews.

Rockingham Castle and the Watsons. By C. WISE. London: Elliot Stock, Paternoster Row. Kettering: W. E. and J. Goss, Market Place.

THIS Book is a medium quarto, and edited with great eare by Mr. C. Wise, who has brought to his task all the requirements necessary, and is not above thanking, in his Introduction, a number of gentlemen for lightening his labours. In the first chapter he describes with graphic pen the beauty of the surrounding scenery in the midst of which Rockingham Castle has stood for eight centuries, and at one time was accepted as the Windsor Castle of the Midlands, at the present time traversed so by the railways. There are traces of it having been held by our forefathers in their rude way until the Romans occupied the site, on which primitive defences had been made, and they erected a fortress commanding the district around. Domesday Book mentions that the warlike Bovi held the position until the Conqueror's successful warriors converted it into a fortress.

Its commanding position at once marked it out as a point of attack by the Romans, as east and west of it are ravines deepening towards the north, which had a precipitous slope down to the valley, and the south, being weakest, was protected by a mound, afterward strengthened by two moats; they soon improved its position by keeping the river where possible from inundating the valleys around, for tradition still survives of travellers being lost in attempting to pass from Rockingham village across the morass. In fact so early as 1209—1239 Hugh, Bishop of Lincoln, recommended the construction of a bridge at Rockingham, and offered thirteen days' indulgence to those who being truly penitent would contribute to the building of the bridge—a novel mode of reclaiming the wrongdoers of the time. The constructor of the Castle availed himself of the position by enclosing the northern part of about three acres with almost impregnable walls, and divided it into three courts, for the protection of himself and his numerous retainers.

Leland, in his 'Itinerary' (i. 14), gives a description of it when in ruins in Henry VIII.'s time, that it stood "right stately, and hath a mighty diche and bullwarks agayne without the diche .... One thing in the waulles is much to be noted, and that is, they be embatteled on booth the sides, so that if the area of the Castelle were won, the kepers of the waulles might defend the Castelle."

The Author gives an excellent record of the Castle as a royal residence by the Conqueror, whose son used it on 11 March 1095 as the place for the Council called to meet the Archbishop of Canterbury, the consultation lasting two days, so that as a residence it must have been very ample to have accommodated the British nobles, bishops, and clergy assembled. So tiring was the meeting to the Archbishop that twice he was found asleep with the wall for his pillow. The neighbouring manors furnished each one or more men as a garrison, as that of Benefield was held on the condition of providing one soldier, similarly to about fourteen neighbouring manors, at the cost of from twenty pence to seventy-five shillings yearly. Richard I. and King John stayed there during intervals between the wars at that time, and the latter played "tables" with the Earl of Salisbury, losing 4s. 10½d. and 4s. 11d. while enjoying his stay, and in 1214 he laid out £127 8s. 6d. on a new tower and chamber, and ordered a cask of the best wine found in London to be sent to the Castle for his own drinking. The present gateway is probably that included in the above work, being assigned to 1200. On page 17 there is given an excellent representation of the entrance towers.

The Watson family originally came from Yorkshire, and held large possessions in Lyddington in 1460, and from them issued the Watsons of Rockingham Castle, for among the rolls of courts held some are as far back as Henry VI. Edward Watson in 1519 was Surveyor-General to three successive Bishops of Lincoln, whose palace in London was on the site occupied now by Somerset House, and his son Edward, of Rockingham Castle, married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Edward Montagu of Boughton, Chief Justice of England. His eldest son was knighted at the Charterhouse in 1603 by King James, who was, afterwards, more than once a guest at the Castle, and this Sir Edward had two sons, both knighted, Lewis, who bought Rockingham Castle from the King, and Edward, and Lewis was made the first Baron Rockingham in 1644. He had in 1619 been enabled to buy also the New Park belonging to the Marquis of Buckingham. He married as his second wife Eleanor, sister of the Earl of Rutland, and his grandson became Viscount Sondes, first Earl of Rockingham, whose son Edward predeceased him in 1721, and his fourth daughter married the first Baron Monson, whose second son became Baron Sondes, and the title, on the death of the third Baron Sondes, who died unmarried, went to his eldest brother as fourth Baron Sondes, and his fourth brother, the Hon. Richard Watson, marrying the daughter of the Marquis of Headfort, is thus the father of the present representative of the Rockingham Watsons, who marrying the daughter of the Rev. Sir John H. Culme Seymour, Bart., is now J.P. for Northants, Leicester, and Rutland. From the first alliance of Edward Watson to the Bishop of Lincoln's niece, the family seemed to have married very advantageously, like the Stanleys and Westminsters.

We are compelled to curtail our pleasant resumé of this very interesting Work. It is illustrated by several initial and tail pieces shewing parts of the Castle, portraits of four Watsons, Lady Sondes, Grace Pelham, the wife of the first Baron Sondes, and two views of Rockingham and ground plans; also plan of the keep as fortified by the Parliamentary garrison in 1644, shewing how circular the whole place was laid out. The whole is a painstaking monument of a most interesting place and neighbourhood, and the Author has spared no pains in giving many details of the events occurring at the time of each family, and an ample account of the various possessions held by the Watson family from the fourteenth century, with monumental inscriptions, excellent pedigrees, and an ample index. The Work ought to be in the hands of every gentleman, and might be taken as an excellent guide for compiling family histories, now so general a study with our wealthier gentry. It is excellently got up, neatly bound, and altogether reflects credit on all engaged.

Views of the Old Halls of Lancashire and Cheshire. Twenty-eight Engravings by N. G. PHILIPS, with descriptive Letterpress by twenty-four Local Contributors, and a brief Memoir of the Artist-Engraver, etc. London: Henry Gray, 47 Leicester Square, W.C.

THIS large quarto volume is based upon the copper-plate drawings so skilfully etched by the late Mr. N. G. Philips between 1822—1824, and whose premature death in 1831 at the early age of thirty-six, after being chosen a member of St. Luke's Academy in Rome, every one must regret. He predeceased his father John Leigh Philips, whose grandfather had settled in Manchester, leaving two sons who both were men of mark, and John Leigh it was who left his valuable collcetion of insects to the Manchester Natural History Society. No doubt the young artist when about twenty-five was imbued with admiration for Bewick's wood engravings, for there is a strong resemblance in several of the plates to the popular engraver of the day—one among many others at the time a man of mark in an art which nowadays is so deficient of notable followers; hence the rise of the various "proeesses." His views of Arnside Tower, Hutt in Hale Wood, The Old Barn at Clayton, Crumpsall and Morleys Halls, are very similar to Bewick's work, while those of Thurland Castle, Ordsall Hall, Lostock Hall, Garratt Hall, Clayton Hall, Holford Hall, and the small engraving of Bold Hall, are masterpieces of minutiæ, shading, and general effeet not to be surpassed.

The volume begins with the painting of Speke Hall, and engraved by W. H. Lizars, with an account of it by Mr. Edward W. Cox, of Liverpool. The plate hardly gives a fair idea of the beauty of the Hall, unless it had been materially improved up to 1887, for we saw it then with Sir James A. Picton and other members of the British Archæological Society, and all were struck with its originality. The architecture of Speke Hall is partly shewn in Ince Hall, Wardley Hall, Cleworth Hall, Peel Hall, even more elaborate than Speke, though not so old, Lostock Hall, now no more, two engravings of which are given second to none in execution, and Turton Tower, built in 1101, and the estate of the Chethams, etc., it being sold in 1890, and the Tower is still preserved by the Misses Appleton along with a portion of the ancient furniture. All seem to have been reared under the same architectural outline, and Lancashire ought to be proud of such buildings.

Mr. Gray, too, has been fortunate in being able to secure such excellent collaborateurs as the Hon. and Rev. Canon Bridgeman, who contributes the account of Inee Hall; Mr. J. Paul Rylands, the Hon. Secretary of the Harleian Society, who gives the history of The Hutt in Hale Wood; Lieut.-Col. Henry Fishwick giving Little Mitton Hall; Mr. W. D. Pink, who writes about Cleworth Hall; Mr. J. P. Earwaker's account of Holford Hall, besides twenty other gentlemen, writers of equal merit, for accounts of the various other places. The Pedigree of the Philips Family is also well done both by the draughtsman and the printers, who have throughout produced a book worthy of any establishment, and we congratulate Mr. Gray upon his ample list of upwards of 300 subscribers, although we miss the great consideration of an index of names and places, which such a book needs. The plates, too, ought to have been guarded so as to allow the book to open freer.

The Journal of the Ex Libris Society. Volume IV., Parts 7 to 12. London: A. and C. Black, Soho Square, W.

OUR contemporary still persists in being entertaining and original, publishing as it does five pages in the last six Parts of "Bookplates for Identification," carrying them up to No. 68. Besides these there are separate plates shewing the arms of Sir Charles Frederiek, K.G., 1752, another shewing two designs by Mr. J. Forbes Nixon, printed in colours, and one ascribed to Bartolozzi, and designed for George III. We have seen a similarly designed one as a frontispieee to a work for the present Duke of Saxe-Coburg, with his arms as Duke of Edinburgh supported by Cupids, and this plate of Bartolozzi might have been intended for the same purpose. The bookplates of the poets Halifax, 1702, Samuel Rogers, about 1790, and Byron, 1822, are unique and interesting, as also that of Tennyson before he was made a peer, and with his autograph appended. The arms of Charles Kingsley are also given on p. 195. The fine bookplates designed by Mr. C. E. Tute are also well executed, although very similar in style. The membership of the Society has far exceeded the anticipations of its founders, and we heartily wish it every success.

(From the second Book.)

On the opening page of this book is a "Memorandum, That from the yeare 1647 to the year 1653 Mr. Herne (Heron) served the Cure of Ottham under Mr. Wilson, Minister of Maidstone, during all which time there is neither Marriage, Christening, or Buriall entred in the Register booke of Ottham. Testified by me JOHN DAVIS, Rector of Ottham."

This explains and justifies in this Parish the course then adopted generally through the Country, as recorded in another Memorandum on the same page: "Memorandum, That Henrie Tooke, Docter, was sworn ye Register of the Parish of Ottham (according to the late Act for Marriages, Births, and Burialls) this sixe and twentieth day of Januarie 1653, by me WILLIAM MADDOX," and that he held the office till 1659.

The Marriage Registers of All Saints, Maidstone.*

The earliest Maidstone Register (which is clearly a transcript of entries signed by John Porter himself, who was originally "Sacrist" of the College, and continued his connection with the Church after the Dissolution as "Parish Priest") dates from the year 1542, and has the following Memorandum on the title-page:—

"The regystre off the collegyate churche off all sayncts in Maydston, in the wiche be wrytten and contayned all and synglre aswell the propre names as the surnames off them that have be [sic] wedded, Christened, and buryed, within the sayed Parysshe ffrome the thirde daye of September In the xxxiiij yeare off the reygne off the moste excellent Prynce Henry by the grace off god Kynge off Englande, off ffrance, and off Irelande, and in erthe supreme heed under Christe off the churche off Englande and Irelande."

The Injunction issued by Thomas Crumwell in 1538, which called the Register into existence, and required that on every Sunday the Parson should in the presence of one of the churchwardens enter in it every Marriage, Baptism, and Burial solemnized during the previous week, was rigidly observed in this church; for week after week, with marked regularity, occurs an entry to this effect, either, "ffrome the thyrde daye off September inclusyve unto the tenth daye off the same moneth exclusyve none were wedded," or else, "there were wedded," and then the names of the persons married, with the record thus, "By me Sir John Porter, Parisshe Priest, in the presence off Rycharde Basse, one off the churchewardens," or of the churchwarden present.

After seven weeks without a marriage the first entry is that of George Myller.

* This John Beale belonged to a family that had already been in the parish above 240 years, as a brass tablet in the church testifies, and was probably a younger son of the William Beale who was twice elected Portreve (bis Portgrevius illius ville). The family is still represented in the town on the mother's side by the daughters of the late distinguished local Antiquary, the Rev. Beale Poste.

Genealogical Notes and Queries.

LEE.

Ralph Lee appears as a witness in a deed recorded in Chester County, Pa., Book E, page 55, dated 2 September 1727, executed in London by Elizabeth Green, wife of John Green of London, et al., and acknowledged by Ralph Lee, 15 October 1731, before Jeremiah Langhorn, Register and Recorder of Bucks County, Pa., which appears to shew that Ralph Lee was in London in 1727, and in Bucks County, Pa., in 1731. It would, therefore, seem probable that he is a relative, perhaps father or brother, of William Lee, who first appeared in Bucks County, Pa., in 1725, was married there in 1727, and had a son named Ralph Lee.

Wanted record of any Lee Family through any will or pedigree record, probably Virginia, or London, England, or other English Lee lines, having in the family a Ralph Lee and a William Lee living during the above-mentioned years.

Reviews.

The History of the Island of Antigua, one of the Leeward Caribbees in the West Indies. From the First Settlement in 1635 to the Present Time. Vol. I. By VERE LANGFORD OLIVER, M.R.C.S. Eng., L.R.C.P. Lond. 1894. London: Mitchell and Hughes, 140 Wardour Street, W.

THIS is a handsome volume, issued by the Author quite as a labour of love, and in the production of which no expense has been spared, nor details passed over, but every pains have been taken to make this and its succeeding volume, to be issued this year, monuments of hard work and great literary research, and works to which future historians can always refer with pleasure.

The Work as originally contemplated was announced as a folio of above 350 pages, but the Author had got such a mass of information by him to form an Introduction, that he had to leave the genealogical portion to finish the Introduction, which extends to clx pages, and then the present volume extends to 476 pages, thus exceeding his proposed work by upwards of 100 pages, and another volume to take up the family history, which ends in Volume I. with the history of the Family of Frye, and is followed by a very ample Index of Names, etc. The second volume will therefore be chiefly genealogical matter, beginning with the letter G, in alphabetical order, but will also contain in an Appendix complete lists of all Governors, Speakers, and other officials, dating from the earliest time, together with extracts from parochial records, land patents, and surveyors' returns.

The Introduction commences with the topography of the Island, climate, vegetation, rainfall 1888, botany, etc. It then takes up the settlement of the Leeward Islands from 1623, mentioning the grant made by Charles I. to the Earl of Carlisle of all the Caribbees. In 1650 Lord Willoughby came to Barbados and proclaimed the accession of Charles II., and ordered assemblies on each island, but in those early days there were thousands of Royalists who still proclaimed the "man Charles" as their lawful sovereign, and were so persistent in their loyalty that the Commonwealth made preparations for sending a fleet there, and finally seven vessels containing 860 men and 238 guns were sent under Sir George Ayscue to reduce the West Indies, and after some desultory fighting Lord Willoughby found that he was deserted by a regiment under Col. Modyford, and made the best terms he could, all his lands being restored to him, and after the installation of Daniel Searle as Governor, Sir George Ayscue left with the fleet in 1652. After this time events were drifting to a very insecure state with the French, who in 1666 were able with a powerful fleet to take St. Kitts or St. Christopher's, to which place Lord Willoughby had sent 800 men, but to little avail, and finally the French, with the same fleet of seven vessels and 166 guns, called upon Antigua to surrender, which it did, a dastardly massacre by the French of a group of officers assembled to hear the terms of capitulation taking place.

From Lord Willoughby's government to Sir Charles Wheeler being commissioned as Commander-in-Chief over the Leeward Islands in 1670 excellent laws were promulgated against drunkenness, etc., and only men of estate and ability to be employed. Tobacco, sugar, indigo, and ginger were the chief products, and as shewing the values, 1 lb. of sugar was worth 3 lbs. of tobacco, so that the latter could have been but little used. Although in 1673 the merchants mustered a hundred ships to convey their goods, still such were their losses at sea by the French and Dutch privateers seizing them that they recorded a memorial that they could not prevail upon shippers to send goods in future. In the following year Charles II. made peace with the Low Countries, but the authorities were left for years without pay or reward, the Governor's salary and two companies of foot not having been paid since 1671 ; and reminders were often sent concerning the pay both in Charles's and James's reigns, and it was not until William III.'s reign that the Colonial finances were put on a proper footing.

In 1678 there are some interesting census tables of inhabitants of Nevis, Montserrat, St. Christopher, and Antigua, and summarizing them we find that there were 4620 white men and 2512 women, and 3350 children belonging to them, and 4955 negro men, besides women and children.

In William and Mary's reign in 1688-9 a liberal pension was allowed to every soldier of 3000 lbs., and if slain the same to his widow and provision for his children ; and a terrible earthquake occurred in the Leeward Islands ; and in Antigua, where most of the houses were substantially built with stone, they were thrown down, while the wooden houses in Nevis and Montserrat were not much injured. The war with France being then on, the Leeward Islands desired assistance, so Sir Timothy Thornhill raised his regiment at Barbados, but he did not arrive until St. Christopher had capitulated to the French on 29 July 1689. After a month's stay at Antigua Lieut.-General Codrington sent three sloops with eighty men to fetch the English who were waiting at Anguilla, where they were miserably abused by the Irish, who were partizans with the French ; a French privateer afterwards landed and took two sloops, one of which escaping gave an account of the capture, and Sir Timothy at once set out, captured the French privateer, tried the thirty French and six Irishmen, and hanged four of the latter for their treachery. There were troubles also around, for St. Kitts was taken after eighteen days' siege, when the garrison only had two rounds left for their guns ; Captain James Phipps was killed, there being 500 English against 2000 French. Colonel Codrington now being made Captain-General, Admiral Wright arrived at Nevis on 16 June 1690 with 3000 men and ten ships, and landed the Island regiments in Frigott Bay with some loss, Sir Timothy Thornhill being wounded. In the night 400 men were sent forward to flank the enemy, and the Antiguan regiment under Captain Carden with the others drove the French from their trenches, and next day being Sunday the English troops attended divine service. Most of the islands were declared very unhealthy from yellow fever, and in 1698 General Codrington died. Anticipating the course of the book, there is an excellent portrait of General Christopher Codrington given at page 143, from an original picture of him by Sir James Thornhill, in All Souls' College, Oxford, and an ample pedigree, also three other pedigrees of Codrington families. The General was succeeded by his son Colonel Christopher Codrington on 25 March 1699 who complains in July 1704 that he had lost his eyesight and the use of his limbs ; finally in 1705 Captain Parke was chosen by Queen Anne to be Captain-General. At this point there is an excellent portrait given in the Work of "His Excellency Daniel Parke, Esq., Cap^{t}-Gen^{l} & Chiefe Governour of the Leeward Islands ;" he was also made Vice-Admiral. In March 1709-10 the Governor not having called an Assembly for several years he was ordered home, but he sent in a long defence, and finally having crowned his illegal actions by ordering into the Courthouse, a party of grenadiers the Assembly adjourned, and that night and the following day the inhabitants were summoned to come armed to St. John's Town and seize the Governor. On 7 December 1710 300 or 400 armed men appeared, and the Governor having collected soldiers and several justices at his house, the country party called upon him to surrender and quit the island. He replied by firing a shot upon the assembled inhabitants, and the house was then taken by an assault, Governor Parke receiving a shot in the thigh, and he died in a short time from loss of blood.

During the reigns of "The Georges" and William IV. from 1714 to 1820 the Work is enriched with most interesting statistics of produce, census of whites and blacks, names of privateers brought in, and in 1748 a determined fight between English and French vessels, and an account by Commander Sylvanus Carr of his engagement off Antigua with a French sloop of 22 guns and 120 men, who after an action of an hour and a half boarded his ship with 60 odd men, but sheered off on receiving three round and two double-headed shot from him, leaving his men behind him. "We then took to close quarters, and had work enough till between 8 and 9 at night, when they cried out for quarter, having seven killed and many wounded; the fight would have been shorter had the second mate done his duty in the forecastle, but he and his four men never fired a shot, nor blew off his powder chests, but cry'd out for quarters, hove over all his powder, and suffered the French to cut the half deck thro' with their poleaxes. The Frenchmen made oath before the judge of the Admiralty at Antigua that they had above 30 men killed and mortally wounded; our ship was much damaged, but we had not one man hurt." At page eviii are two views of English Harbour and Freeman's Bay taken from H.M. ship "Scamander" in 1818, and from there to page clx valuable accounts are given of quantities of sugar raised, the labour employed, some interesting letters from a visitor, the statistics of population from 1844 to 1881, the public debt, and the loan floated last year.

At this point is a double plate of St. John's Harbour in Antigua taken in 1752, and from here the Work is embellished with the pedigrees of all the best families settled in Antigua since the middle of 1600, with their arms given, and where large enough the Author has wisely carried the pedigrees across the two opening pages, which the Printers have intelligibly connected with longer lines running into the margin; a good example of which can be seen at page 95 in the Genealogy of Byam, the pedigree making eight pages. Each pedigree is accompanied by summaries of wills, grants, extracts from registers, etc., and the pedigrees will be carried on in the second volume, and complete a Work of which we know of none similar concerning the Leeward Islands, full of detail, mostly authenticated by the official records of the time, and teeming with information we believe without parallel so far as the importance of the subject is concerned. There is at the beginning of the Work a very concise coloured Map of the Leeward Islands condensed by Messrs. Stanford, Views of the Entrance of English Harbour from Freeman's Bay in 1818, etc.

The Journal of the Ex Libris Society. Volume V., Parts 1 to 3, January to March 1895. London: A. and C. Black, Soho Square, W.

Our contemporary begins 1895 very well, and has an excellent plate of Sir Robert Vyner of Swakely who became Lord Mayor in 1674, and died in September 1688, totally ruined by assisting the King so much. The bookplates given for identification range from No. 69 to 79. For modern designs that of Mr. Wise's, and four of Mr. Joseph Sattler's, from his work Art in Bookplates, produced in Germany, are exquisite examples of artistic work, three of the latter being printed on a toned ground, though we think that of Wolfgang had better been shewn on a plate mark only, being so full of detail. There is a double plate given in No. 3 of Bookplates by Mark Lambert of Newcastle, and some are so like Bewick's design that it shews how young Lambert was impressed with his master's general style. The account of Lambert by Mr. John Vinycomb, M.R.I.A., is very interesting.

Scots Lore. No. 1, January 1895. Glasgow: William Hodge and Co., 26 Bothwell Street. London: Elliot Stock, 62 Paternoster Row, E.C. Price 1s. monthly.

'Scots Lore,' according to its Preface, "aims to make itself a place of record for studies in every department of national historical enquiry—political, ecclesiastical, literary, and social. . . . . Space will be found in its pages for monographs on special subjects in any of the nominate branches of archæology—glossarial, heraldic, ecclesiological, legal, and the like." "A Mediæval Architect," "Glasgow Bridge," "A Gypsy Trial of 1714," and "The Inquest of David" are the titles of interesting and well-written articles in the initial number, while "Book Notices," "Queries," and "Notes" form attractive reading. The magazine, if it should not command, at least deserves, success.

The Redruth Parish Register,

FROM 1560 TO 1716.

EDITED BY THURSTAN C. PETER.

Extracts have been made from the Registers of Camborne, Gwennap, and Illogan, where they throw light on the Redruth Register, and some entries missing from the Register have been supplied from the Transcripts at Exeter and Bodmin.

The Registers were very dilapidated, and much of the writing faint with age. To Redruth men, and Cornish people generally, on account of the local interest which is attached to these simple records, which are so much interwoven with the general history of the town, the volume will prove of the greatest interest. "Every man's concern with the place where he lives has something more in it than the mere amount of rates and taxes that he has to pay."

In an Appendix are printed other matter illustrative of the history of Redruth, collected from the Public Record Office, the State Paper Office, the Exeter Archives, and other sources. Towards this much valuable assistance has been rendered by Prebendary HINGESTON-RANDOLPH and others, and a large amount of interesting matter is included.

The Volume is illustrated with four full-paged Collotype Illustrations—three being facsimile reproductions from the Register by means of photography, and consequently rendering every peculiarity of the original in faithful detail; also one of the Church Plate. A Collotype of the Church is also given. A full Index is given.

They long will mourn, yet happy who like you,
In Life's pure Morn shall bid the World adieu.

† The eight entries from May 28 to November 27 seem to have been misplaced, and to belong to another year.

The First Register closes with the reign of Edward VI. The second opens with that of Elizabeth, while the intervening five years represent a hiatus valde deflendus. Throughout Elizabeth's reign the Regal year, beginning with November 17, is noted for the first nine years at irregular intervals, not at the commencement, but in the course of the year, probably only to serve as a record of the time when the yearly return of the Registers was made to the Diocesan Registry. From the tenth year the note recurs with more or less regularity towards the end of November. An attempt appears to have been made at a subsequent period to give in the margin of the page the Civil year also, at the end of March, but by a singular mistake the first marriage recorded as taking place in the first of Elizabeth, on January 22 (i.e. 1558-59), has in the margin the date 1560, and a similar false calculation is continued in subsequent years, tending to a serious confusion of dates. It has therefore been thought better to omit these marginal dates altogether, as forming no part of the original entry, and to insert the correct ones according to the Regal years.†

The heading of this tome runs thus:—

"A Register booke of the Parishe Churche of All Saynts in maidston in the which are written the names of them that have bynn maried [and Christoned] within the saide Parishe ffrom and in the first yeare of the Raigne of our most gracious Soveraigne Ladie Elizabeth by the grace of God Queene of England ffraunce and Ireland defender of the ffaithe, etc."

1558.

Jan. 20 Wylliam Coverley and Margerye Margrove.
Jan. 26 James ffrankelyn and Elizabeth Barram.

* This entry has the following interpolation: "ffather and mother to Ambrose beale living in Estland [?] 1631." This Thomas Beale's name appears in a family pedigree as having married "Alicia Wolgate," and having died in 1593.

† The word "maried" or "married" is now regularly used, instead of "wedded" as hitherto; and the signatures of the "Minister and Churchwardens" appear at the foot of each page only, instead of weekly.

The Journal of the Ex Libris Society. Volume V., Parts 4 to 6, April to June 1895. London: A. and C. Black, Soho Square, W.

Our contemporary is still improving in its samples of plates issued; one of Mr. H. Sherburne Rowe, by Mr. E. D. French of New York, is most minutely drawn, and the mantling good, with shields and bookease very artistically grouped. Other examples are given, equally meritorious. In No. 5 the Haig samples are also good, also one recently designed by Mr. P. C. Tilney shewing the interior of an iron-worker's shop. No. 6 shews us some excellent samples of designs of Mr. W. R. Weyer of Norwich, and also, in a short paper by Mr. Charles Dexter Allen, good examples by Mr. W. F. Hopson of New Haven, Connecticut. Altogether the work is increasing in interest, and is well worthy of the support it is getting from the American as well as the English public.

The Redruth Parish Register,

FROM 1560 TO 1716.

EDITED BY THURSTAN C. PETER.

Extracts have been made from the Registers of Camborne, Gwennap, and Illogan, where they throw light on the Redruth Register, and some entries missing from the Register have been supplied from the Transcripts at Exeter and Bodmin.

The Registers were very dilapidated, and much of the writing faint with age. To Redruth men, and Cornish people generally, on account of the local interest which is attached to these simple records, which are so much interwoven with the general history of the town, the volume will prove of the greatest interest. "Every man's concern with the place where he lives has something more in it than the mere amount of rates and taxes that he has to pay."

In an Appendix are printed other matter illustrative of the history of Redruth, collected from the Public Record Office, the State Paper Office, the Exeter Archives, and other sources. Towards this much valuable assistance has been rendered by Prebendary HINGESTON-RANDOLPH and others, and a large amount of interesting matter is included.

The Volume is illustrated with four full-paged Collotype Illustrations—three being facsimile reproductions from the Register by means of photography, and consequently rendering every peculiarity of the original in faithful detail; also one of the Church Plate. A Collotype of the Church is also given. A full Index is given.

EXTRACTS OF THE NAME OF CURSON OR CURZON FROM THE PARISH REGISTER OF WATERPERRY, OXON.

The burials commence 17 Sep. 1678, the baptisms 24 June 1711, and the marriages 8 May 1712. Those since that date were extracted by Col. Chester; those before that date were copied by him from the Rawlinson MSS. (B. 400 B.) in the Bodleian Library, Oxford. The twenty entries marked * are in the copy of the Visitations of Oxford, printed by the Harleian Society (Vol. V.) in 1871 (a), where, however, the name throughout is spelt Curson, and the word "S^r^" is prefixed to "Joh." in the baptism of 1604.

(a) Valuable as this volume is, and it is the more so on account of the numerous extracts from parish registers and monumental inscriptions therein given, it by no means contains all the pedigrees in the Visitation of 1634; e.g. (from a very casual comparison), the following are omitted:—Appletree of Deddington; Atherton of Baldon; Bayly of Ducklington; Brasey of Thame; Braybrooke of Bright Waltham; Calcot of Winscot; Chambers of Winscot; Chamberlain of Wickham; Coker of Bicester; Colchester of Dodington; Deane of Netherscott; Duncombe of Dodington; Elsynge of Cornwall; Eyns of Charlebury; Fisher; Goodere of Heythorpe; Grandger of Witney; Hamson of Bradwell; Harris of Churchill; Higgens of Fewcott; Holt of Stoke Lyne; Jones of Chastleton; Loggin of Idbury; Machen of Benchington; Molins of Mongewell; Pym of Brill; Salmon of Henley; Say of Blechington; Sheldon of Steeple Barton; Symons of Pirton; Taverner of Nettleton; Walley; Walcop of English; Walter of Saresden; Woodward of Stratton Audley; Wray, etc. The pedigrees (85 in number) of the Visitation of 1669 are not (and indeed could not be, for the reasons therein stated) included. That Visitation contains 85 pedigrees, of which the following (24) pedigrees are continuations from the Visitation of 1634, viz., Barber, Bray, Brigham, Cobb, Curson, Fetiplace, Greenwood, Holloway, Lukin, Lybbe, Lyde, Napper, Nourse, Osbaldiston, Parsons, Perrott of Northleigh, Petty, Pollard, Pudsey, Standard, Tipping, Wickham, Woodhull, besides that of Woodward, one of the pedigrees omitted in the printed volume.

Curson Monuments at Waterperry.

An elaborate account of the earlier ones is in Wood's MSS. (E. I., p. 224) in the Bodleian Library at Oxford. The substance of it, as far as regards the monument to Walter Curson 1527, is given in the Oxford Visitations as printed by the Harleian Society on pages 105 and 131. So also on pages 246-247 as far as regards that to his grandson Vincent Curson 1582, to Sir Francis Curson (son of the said Vincent) 1610, and to Sir Thomas Curson, Bart. 1682, who is commemorated in the said inscription of his "great-grandfather," Vincent Curson. The entries in the MS. of Wood, though much fuller, are hardly worth reproducing here. Besides these four there now (1895) exist the following, the first of which has no date, but is probably about 1620, being to the first wife of Sir John Curson, frequently called (erroneously) "Mary" instead of "Magdalen."

(b) See this note on page 216.

On north wall of chancel. Arms: CURSON impaling DORMER.

"An Epitaph.
She that lies here within this gloomy grave
Enjoy'd all virtues that a mind could have
Let this suffice thee then in briefe to knowe
She once was such as thou mayst reade belowe.
Lord Dormer's daughter, Sir John Curson's wife
To whom four sons and daughters two she bore
Beloved of all she lived, yet chang'd this life
For such a life as never shall change more
A MAGDALEN by name, a SAINT by grace
Dyed much bewayl'd and buried in this place
Then happye she who such a life did leade
As she nowe lives anewe though she is dead."

There does not appear to be any monument to her husband, Sir John Curson, who died in Jan. 1655-6. That to his son Sir Thomas Curson, 1st Bart., in 1682 is printed as above, though the one (anterior in date) erected by the said Thomas to his daughter is omitted. The following are on plain slabs on the chancel floor, the first two being within the altar rails.

Under the arms of Curson, in a lozenge:—

"Here lyeth the body of Elizabeth Curson, the pious and dutyfull daughter of Sir Thomas Curson, Knight Baronett, and Dame Elizabeth his wife. She was borne on Sunday y^e^ 18^th^ of November 1655 and dyed on Sunday y^e^ 8^th^ of November, a^o^ Dni. 1668. Shee lived dearly beloved not only of her parents but of all that knew her. Her pious life, sweet disposition vertuous and discreet behavior made her admired while she was liveinge and her memorye pretious on earth, now shee is in heaven."

"Here lieth the body of Dame Elizabeth Curson, wife of Sir Thomas Curson, Bart. who departed this life the 3^d^ of January 1690" (b).

"Here lyeth also the body of Elizabeth Curson, wife of Francis Curson Esq. and sister to Francis Knowllys late of Winchingdon in the County of Bucks, Esq. She dyed Nov. the 15, 1723 aged 43."

"Here lyeth the body of Sir John Curson, Bart., who died the 17^th^ of Decem. 1727, aged 71 years."

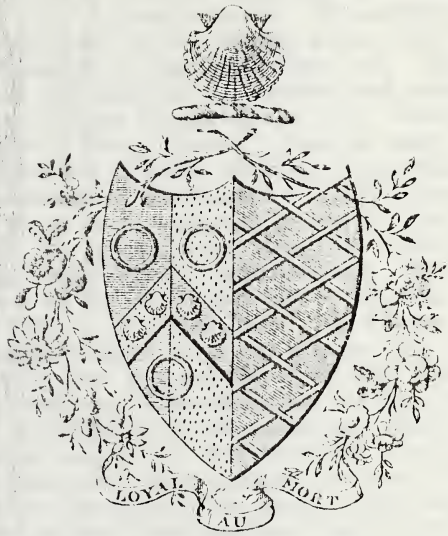
"Here lies the body of Robert, second son to Sir John Curson of Waterperry, Bart., who died Mar. 23, 1742-3, aged 65."

"Here lyeth the body of Sir Francis Curson, Bart., who departed this life May 29^th^ 1750, aged 74."

"Here lieth the body of Dame Winifred Curson, relict of the late Sir Francis Curson, Bart., who departed this life April 2^nd^ 1764 aged 59 years."

"In memory of Catharine Brinckhurst Curson, daughter of John Brinckhurst, Esq. and niece of Sir Francis Curson, Bart. who died August the 3^d^, 1776 aged 76."

(b) With respect to the date of burial "7 July 1697," as given in the Rawlinson MSS. (which disagrees entirely with that on the M.I.), Col. Chester writes "I feel sure that I should not have written January in full unless it was on the stone," and the date 1697 is clearly wrong as is shewn from the administration in C.P.C. in July 1690.



Lancelot Shadwell Esq.
Lincoln's Inn

Marriage at St. Gregory's by St. Paul's, London.

1574 Dec. 13 Francis Curson and Ann Southcott.

Among the Roman Catholics in the List of 1715 occur:

Sir John Curzon, of Waterpury, £921 15 0.
Francis Curzon, of Waterpury, £300 0 0.

THE WATERPERRY ESTATE. (See Pedigree, page 212.)

This was inherited by Henry Francis Roper, otherwise Henry Roper, in 1787 under the will of John Barnewall-Curson. He, accordingly, took by royal licence 22 Feb. 1788 (describing him as "Henry Roper, Esq.") the name and arms of Curson only, as directed by that gentleman's will. When, however, he became absolute owner of that estate he, by another royal licence, dated 22 June 1813 (describing him as "Henry Francis Curzon, Esq.," though as late as Jan. 1811 he was signing himself "Henry Curson"), took the name of Curzon [so spelt] in addition to and after that of Roper. In 1824 he succeeded to the Peerage as Baron Teynham, and is ancestor of the succeeding Lords Teynham.

Though (as shewn by the pedigree) he was in many ways connected with the family of Curson, his actual descent therefrom is more than doubtful, and the probability is that his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lyttelton, was the daughter of John Brinckhurst by his second wife, not by the first wife, who was the sister of Sir Francis Curson, the third Bart. Sir Francis by his will dated 1749 devised the Waterperry estate (1) to his wife for life; (2) to his niece Catherine Brinckhurst; (3) to John Barnwall, son of his niece Frances Barnwall; (4) to the said Frances Barnwall; (5) to his niece Lady Gaydon; (6) to John Belson of Brill, co. Bucks, Esq. [a descendant probably of his aunt Elizabeth, wife of Aug. Belson], the last five devises being for life, with remainder in tail male; and (7) to his own right heirs; directing each person to assume the name of Curson. The three ladies above mentioned were daughters of the testator's sister Mary, by John Brinckhurst, which John, however, had other daughters (then living) by a second wife, among whom presumably was Mrs. Lyttelton, who otherwise would have been passed over in this will in favour of a more distant relative. The three nieces abovenamed also receive legacies in the said will, but there is no mention therein of any other niece.

It is not very clear how John Barnwall-Curson (who apparently was, under the terms of the above will, only a tenant for life with remainder in tail male) was able to dispose of the Waterperry estate under his will, dated 1780 and proved 1787, in favour of Henry Francis Roper, his first-cousin once removed, the great-grandson (through his mother's mother) of his maternal grandfather, John Brinckhurst. This, however, he did, and the devise took effect in 1787, one Thomas Riley (born March 1771, probably an illegitimate son of the testator), who was placed before him, having died in testator's lifetime.

* This is no doubt the original form of the name of the family Santacilia which in the early part of the seventeenth century became located at Bexley. (G. Leveson Gower's "Extracts from the Bexley Registers," 'Genealogist,' New Series, vol. i.) Gilbert, in his 'Antiquities of Maidstone,' p. 133, gives the name Anthonius Sanctiuzilla, as one of the Walloon refugees, whereas it is distinctly of Italian origin.

† This lady died at Bexley in 1614, and administration was granted to her estate in October 1615. (Somerset House.)

‡ She was probably the widow of a son of the "John Hoker" mentioned by Burnet ('History of the Reformation') as the writer of a memorable letter to Bullinger, in which he describes the imposture of the "Holy Rood" of Boxley, in which he calls himself Johannes Hokerus Maydstoniensis. The John Hooker of October 26 was probably his son.

§ Apparently a corrupted form between S'ta Cecilia and Santacilia. (See May 2, n.)

‖ Richard Lee had been Mayor in 1573, and died that year.

The Wardour Press Series

OF

Armorial Bookplates — Baronets.

From the Collections of

JOSEPH JACKSON HOWARD, LL.D., F.S.A.,

Maltravers Herald Extraordinary.

WITH MEMORANDA RELATIVE TO EACH PLATE.

As the Edition is limited to 200, immediate application is necessary to secure copies, the American demand alone being likely to absorb the entire residue.

"Next to the collection of bookplates of Sir Augustus Wollaston Franks, that formed by Dr. Howard, F.S.A., Maltravers Herald Extraordinary, is presumably the most extensive and valuable; it is certainly the most renowned. This collection has been placed at the disposal of the editor and publishers of the present work, which is the first of a contemplated series. A work better calculated to appeal to the tastes and desires of bookplate collectors cannot easily be imagined, and the completed series will be a precious possession to all interested in heraldic studies. A handsomer volume or one commending itself more warmly to those addicted to the latest, and in some respects most fascinating, of collecting manias has not yet been published, and the two hundred copies to which the issue is limited will be speedily appropriated. . . . . These present most known styles of armorial plates, and many of them are of the utmost rarity. We wish the editor and publishers God speed in their design, which will bring many prized plates to the knowledge of collectors, and cannot fail to encourage the study."—Notes and Queries, 31 August 1895.

WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

W. T. VINCENT,

PRESIDENT OF THE WOOLWICH DISTRICT ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY;
AUTHOR OF SEVERAL TOPOGRAPHICAL AND OTHER BOOKS.

AN entirely new field of Folk-lore and Antiquarian Study is herein opened, and the incentive to pursue it still further will be irresistible.

Examples of primitive and strange, but hitherto unnoticed, gravestones exist in nearly all our churchyards, unknown and disregarded. Here they are displayed as they have been sketched in various parts of England, Scotland, and Ireland, in Germany, Switzerland, etc., and the student will learn how to look for and to find probably many more as quaint and marvellous in the churchyards yet unexplored.

How it has happened that a subject so captivating has so long escaped notice, while numbers of writers have devoted themselves to the collection of epitaphs, is almost inconceivable; but it cannot be doubted that this work will attract attention to a neglected theme, and be only the first of many books on a branch of antiquity which is full of information, and reveals a mine of speculation.

It is a book to fascinate the stay-at-home, but it is essentially a temptation to Ramblers. Typical tramps are described; we accompany the author in his researches; we share his satisfaction at each discovery, and the spoils are spread before our eyes.

In Search of Gravestones Old and Curious is dedicated by special permission to Earl Stanhope, President of the Kent Archæological Society, who has been good enough to take an interest in the work.

* Sir Richard Lloyd was son of Captain Andrew Lloyd of Aston, by Margaret, daughter of Thomas Powell, Esq., of Whittington Park.

† George Henry, seventh Earl of Kinnoull, married in 1709 Abigail, youngest daughter of Robert (Harley), Earl of Oxford.

‡ Humphrey Wanley, F.R.S., was son of the Rev. Nathaniel Wanley, Vicar of Trinity Church, Coventry, who wrote 'Microcosmos; or, The Wonders of the Little World.' He was born March 21, 1671-2. He was an eminent antiquary, and was Librarian to Robert and Edward, Earls of Oxford. How admirably well calculated he was for filling this situation is abundantly evinced by his Catalogue of the Harleian MSS., which was most ably executed, and it is to be sincerely regretted that he did not live to complete it. (Smith's 'History of Marylebone,' 1833.)

§ Above are the letters M.S., and underneath a coat of arms, the words "Rore tonantis" (? for Terrore Tonantis). Mr. Walter Rye informs me that the antiquary Martin copied this inscription on 16 April 1734, and remarked, "This is on a flat marble in y^e Churchyard lying under y^e South Chancel Wall." N.B.—The lettering is all in capitals.

‖ This marble slab was until lately on the floor of the Ante Chapel, and rapidly becoming obliterated. It was removed, repaired, and placed in its present position against the west wall by the late Incumbent, the Rev. Grant Elleock Thomas.

Mr. Walter Rye has communicated to me the following inscription to the memory no doubt of George D. Val Basmesnill, who, according to the parish registers, was buried 11 March 1715, copied by the antiquary Martin on 16 April 1731:—

Bis Septem lustri vixi et quinque insuper Annos | Fatidico quare cum Simeone precor | Nunc in Pace tuum Deus O Dimitte ministrum | Detus et in Christi Regna Redire tui | G D V B | Ecclesia Anglicana Presbyter | obiit | MDCCXV. v. idu Martij.

In the Ante Chapel, next to the Gwynn monument, on the gallery stairs:— In the Cemetery at Kensal | Green rests the body of the | Revd GRANT ELLCOCK THOMAS | M.A. B.C.L. Wadham Coll. Oxon | Son of the Honourable | GRANT ELLCOCK THOMAS | sometime President of the | Legislative Council of the | Island of Barbados. Born | at Villa Nova Barbados | 27 February 1843 died | in London 16 October 1894 | Having been for 13 years | Minister of the Parish Chapel | of St. Marylebone.

This Tablet is erected by | a few friends as a token of | their regard and esteem.

* Here are deposited the Remains | of Mr WILLIAM O'BRIEN | who died November the 17 [? 7] | Aged 44 Years.

Here lyeth the Body of | ROBERT FRANCES late of | This Parish who departed this | Life the 22d of Feby 1766 Aged |

Mrs. ANN FRANCES wife | of the above ROBT FRANCES | who departed this life | February the 5th 177 Aged | Years.

Mrs MARY MILLS who | died April 4th 1801 | Aged 74 Years.

Mrs CATHARINE .... who departed this Life May .... 177 .. Aged ..

Also PENELOPE JANE THOMAS | sister of the former and Niece | of the latter who departed | this life the 5th of Sepbr 1807 | Aged 52 Years.

Here lyeth the body of | Mrs FRANCES ARROWSMITH | Relict of the late | Revd JOHN ARROWSMITH | Rector of the Parish of .... Oxfordshire† | She died in this Parish | the 18th of May 1786 Aged 75.

To the memory of | JOSIAS CALMADY‡ Esq. | of the County of Devon | who died in 1756 aged 95 [?].

The following inscription is still to be seen on the front pew opposite the communion table:—

These : pewes : vnscrewed : and : tan : in : svnder
In : stone : thers : graven : what : is : vnder
To : wit : a : valt : for : bvrial : there : is Which : EDWARD : FORSET : made : for : him : and : his.

This inscription is to be seen in the picture of Hogarth's "Marriage of the Rake" in the Soane Museum in Lincoln's Inn Fields.

* The four ledger-stones to the memory of (1) William O'Brien, (2) Robert and Ann Frances and Mary Mills, (3) Penelope Thomas, and (4) Mrs. Arrowsmith, having become almost illegible, are now sunk below the marble pavement in the Ante Chapel, placed there in memory of the late Incumbent, the Rev. Grant Ellcock Thomas, and it is hoped that the names copied from these stones will shortly be re-inscribed on this pavement.

† Mr. Joseph Foster informs me that one John Arrowsmith was instituted Rector of Wilcote, Oxon, 11 Feb. 1733-4.

‡ I cannot find any trace of this monument, which is described in Smith's 'History of Marylebone' (1833, London), unless it be an obliterated marble ledger-slab in the Ante Chapel; but according to Burke's 'Commoners,' the wife of Josias Calmady of Langdon and Leawood, Devon, "died at the advanced age of 92 in 1756, and is buried in Marylebone Church." I cannot, however, find any entry of the burial of Josias Calmady or of his wife in the Parish Register of this date.

Genealogical Notes and Queries.

MATON—NEWTON. ALLEN—SMITH.

Information required of the connection between the Matons of Milston, co. Wilts, and Sir Isaac Newton.

Also of William Allen of Richmond, related to Layton Smith of Richmond. He left behind him several volumes of diaries and letters ranging from March 25, 1746, to September 28, 1769. I am told he was a Captain in the Black Watch.

PIERSON.

The names of the immediate ancestors of the Rev. Abraham Pierson, who went to America in 1639, are much desired. He was a graduate of Trinity College, Cambridge University. He came from Newark-on-Trent, and, it is supposed, was born in Nottinghamshire. His brother Henry Pierson settled at Southampton, Long Island, New York State, about 1612.

PELLETT.

'Sussex Arch. Collect.,' vol. xxxviii., p. 106 (Pedigree of Pellatt family), contains a copy of the will of Thomas Pellett, Steyning, 1519. It states: "I will that my picture and my Wifes and my children shalbe paynted in the bacsyde of the wall behinde the Rode." Were such requests common, and are there any such paintings existing?

Dr. Thomas Pellet (Pres. Col. Phys. 1735-9) died 1744. His books were sold by Baker in the same year; see 'The Antiquary,' Aug. 1895, p. 241. Can any reader inform me if he had a Bookplate?

Whitley, Newcastle-on-Tyne. MABERLY PHILLIPS.

THOMAS HOWARD.

Any information would be gladly received as to the descent of a certain Thomas Howard, who is described in MS. Vol. F. 3, 23, Library Trinity College, Dublin, as "Tho. Howard de Dublin, 'Arm." He married Dorcas Wybrants of that city, and died 1709. His descendants possessed a family tree painted on wood, which was destroyed in the early part of this century, and all record of his descent lost. According to family tradition he was a younger son of the Corby Family. It has been conjectured that he was either Thomas, third son of Sir Francis Howard of Corby, by Mary Widdrington, or Thomas, fifth son of Sir Charles Howard of Croglin, by Dorothy Widdrington, but nothing has been found to prove this. His children were named William, Alfred, and Mary; the two latter are mentioned in the will of a Mrs. Dorothea Smith, who was buried in Westminster Abbey, 22 March 1708-9, as her nephew and niece. (Quoted in Harleian Society Publications, vol. x., p. 266.) Nothing remains to shew what arms he bore, but the crest as borne by him was identical with that borne by the Northern branches of the Howard Family, the lion being "ducally crowned," not "gorged with a ducal coronet."

Reviews.

Historical Notices of Caversham. By the Rev. M. T. PEARMAN, M.A. London: Mitchell and Hughes, 140 Wardour Street, W.

THIS pamphlet of fifty-four pages shews that the Author in preparing the paper for the Oxford Archæological Society spared no pains or research in making the account as interesting as he could. Beginning with the entry in Domesday Book of Caversham, which gives the tenure under which it was held of the king, and the extent of the assessment, he next has a description of the Manor given to Walter Giffard by William I. There is an account of the Abbey of Notley founded in 1162 by Giffard and his wife Ermigard; of Batell Manor, and of the Church and Rectory, there are short accounts given; and of the Bridge and St. Anne's Chapel, and the skirmish which took place during the civil war in 1643, interesting details are also furnished. The pamphlet is nicely got up, and well worthy of being supported by the several Archæological Societies of England.

The History and Antiquities of the Church and Parish of St. Laurence. By CHARLES COTTON, F.R.C.P., M.R.C.S., Hon. Assoc. Order of St. John of Jerusalem, etc. London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Co. Ramsgate: S. R. Wilson.

THIS is a quarto volume fairly illustrated, and printed on hand-made paper with rough edges, and it reflects great credit on the Author. The book gives most interesting facts and records of St. Laurence, and it will compare favourably with any other local history.

Dr. Cotton gives good reasons for ascribing the date of the Church as far back as A.D. 1062, though smaller than the present one erected in the twelfth century, and several pages are given of its architectural features, and excellent illustrations shewn taken from photographs. During his investigations was discovered a fragment of a Church Service on vellum of the fourteenth century, it having been utilized as the outside cover of a register in use between 1609—1623. In the sixth chapter Dr. Cotton gives an interesting account of it, and two reproductions of it are shewn, the evidence brought forward proving that it was written in memory of St. Elizabeth of Hungary, who died in 1231. The vellum shews a Gregorian musical notation, of which further information would be interesting. There is no evidence as to how it could have come into possession of the churchwardens of St. Laurence. Dr. Cotton gives several genealogies of notable persons and families who have been resident at St. Laurence, beginning with the brasses to Nicholas Manston, 1444, and John Pawlyn and his wife, 1462, and has accumulated full particulars of the former family; and in chapter ix. accounts are given of the Manston family, and also particulars of various manors, with notices of their past owners. There are also given the inscriptions on the tombstones in St. Laurence Churchyard down to 1880, also a list of Vicars and Churchwardens; and the book is well worthy of being secured by the Public Libraries and reading public of Kent and elsewhere.

The Gillmans of Highgate, with Letters from Samuel Taylor Coleridge, etc. Illustrated with Views and Portraits. Being a Chapter from the History of the Gillman Family. By ALEXANDER W. GILLMAN. London: Elliot Stock, 62 Paternoster Row.

THIS book is professedly "a Chapter" from a larger work now preparing for publication, entitled 'Searches into the History of the Gillman Family,' "the author deeming that many may like to possess a copy of the Highgate Chapter and particulars of the life of James Gillman, the 'friend' of Coleridge, to whom the whole work may not be of so much interest." From it we learn that the Poet Coleridge lived for eighteen years in the family of "James Gillman, the well-known surgeon of Highgate." Coleridge seems to have been much attached to Mr. and Mrs. Gillman, as is testified in the letters written by the former to his friends. The book is a valuable contribution to Coleridge literature, and will be perused with pleasure by every one interested in the story of the Poet. Well printed, beautifully illustrated, and neatly bound, the volume is really an ornament for the parlour-table or the library-shelf. An Index concludes the book: this is as it should be; for no work, however valuable, if lacking a trustworthy Index, can be considered complete. The "larger work" referred to above will include genealogical memoranda relating to the various branches of the Gillman or Gilman Family in England, Ireland, America, and Belgium, from the earliest times, shewing a Royal Descent from Coel Godeboc, King of Great Britain circa A.D. 300. It will be illustrated with many engravings of ancient family coats of arms, portraits, etc., copies of old wills, pedigrees, and monumental inscriptions. Only 300 copies will be for sale, and Subscribers' names can now be registered for copies at £1 5s. each.

Maine Historical and Genealogical Recorder. Portland, Maine: L. W. Watson.

THIS work still carries on its useful researches in American families, the Part to hand being No. 3 of Vol. VIII., and containing an excellent collotype portrait of William Whipple, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence as a Member of Congress in 1775; and yet, inconsistent as it may seem, this distinguished patriot of the day had made his fortune smuggling over the poor Africans as slaves to his countrymen. Besides family history, the Part gives wills, inscriptions, petitions, etc., and other interesting records.

The Victoria Magazine of History and Biography. Published quarterly by the Virginia Historical Society, Richmond, U.S.A.

THIS work is now in its third volume, and the Parts for July and October are just to hand. The contents are mostly historical, and consist of extracts from wills, genealogy of Virginian families, etc., and is worthy of support in this country.

The Journal of the Ex Libris Society. Vol. V., July to December 1895. London : A. and C. Black, Soho Square, W.

THESE Parts fully sustain the high character of this Journal, the plates of Mr. Leighton coming out very well, likewise those of Mr. Anning Bell, whose designs are very classic and original, and those of Mr. Henry Blackwell and Mr. Andrew Tuer in colours are well arranged, the latter particularly original, although he might have introduced a printing press or something of his craft on one of his plates. The designs of Mr. G. W. Eve are as usual faultless, and the examples, being those of several gentlemen connected with the College of Arms, are complimentary to him, as shewing the esteem which he has so rapidly achieved. The paper on his designs by Mr. Gleeson White we commend also for its fair criticism. Altogether the Journal keeps up its standard of excellence in every way, and its fifth volume will we think be its best.

LITERARY NOTES.

A sheet Pedigree of the Family of Bodington of Great Harborough, Cubbington, and Kenilworth, in the county of Warwick, compiled from Wills, Church Registers, Monumental Inscriptions, etc., by W. F. Carter, of the Inner Temple, Esq., has been printed for private circulation by Messrs. Charles Cooper and Co. of Birmingham. Its dates extend from 1533 to 1895, and the evidences given are fairly complete. It is well got up and printed on good paper. Numerous records of the Boddington Family are to be found in the various volumes of this 'Miscellanea,' and Mr. Carter's pedigree will possibly supplement information already published.

A "Pedigree of Vincent," compiled by Mr. Reginald Stewart Boddington, has just been printed by Messrs. Mitchell and Hughes of London. Dates are wanting in the first two generations, but in the third generation the year 1434 is mentioned in connection with a Richard Vincent, "Lord of the Manor of Bernake or Bernack, Northants, and Swinford, co. Leicester," whose fate it was to be "slain by Henry Killigrew" in that year. This pedigree comes down to the year 1887, and its compiler, Mr. R. S. Boddington, will be glad to receive information concerning the Vincent Family further than he has now been able to place on record.

We have also been favoured with a copy of the Pedigree of the Family of Maryon of Essex and Herts. This pedigree was amply elucidated by Dr. Henry H. Drake, in 1886, in his new edition of Hasted's 'History of Kent,' under the district of Charlton, where he shews the connection of the family to Sir Spencer Maryon Wilson of Charlton and Hampstead. In the present issue it is spoilt by being crammed into too little space, is badly arranged, and altogether got up in a style more like a shop circular than a family history.

'In Search of Gravestones Old and Curious' is the unique title of a work, written and compiled by Mr. W. T. Vincent (President of the Woolwich District Antiquarian Society, and author of 'The Records of the Woolwich District'), now in the press. It is illustrated with 102 drawings of old gravestones, and the text of the book, besides describing these, affords a vast variety of information concerning old churchyards in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and in some Continental districts; also as to burial customs, and the laying out of old churchyards as flower gardens and recreation grounds. The book will be issued on January 1st, 1896, price 6s., neatly bound, and Subscribers' names should be sent to Messrs. Mitchell and Hughes, 140 Wardour Street, London, W.

OF

Armorial Bookplates — Baronets.

FROM THE COLLECTIONS OF

JOSEPH JACKSON HOWARD, LL.D., F.S.A.,

MALTRAVERS HERALD EXTRAORDINARY.

WITH MEMORANDA RELATIVE TO EACH PLATE.

THE EDITION IS LIMITED TO 200 COPIES.

"'Armorial Bookplates, Baronets,' is a handsome quarto containing a hundred good reproductions of the bookplates of baronets, mostly of the last century, a few being a little earlier. It will be of interest to those who pursue the now fashionable craze of collecting bookplates, but as Dr. Howard only supplies us with information about the baronets, and gives no hints as to the artists who designed the plates, the value of the book as a contribution to the history of English art is not great. The compiler of a similar work in Germany would have tracked out many of the artists, and thus thrown light upon the history of his country's art; but we in England are not a people greatly given to research."—The Times, July 25, 1895.

"Next to the collection of bookplates of Sir Augustus Wollaston Franks, that formed by Dr. Howard, F.S.A., Maltravers Herald Extraordinary, is presumably the most extensive and valuable; it is certainly the most renowned. This collection has been placed at the disposal of the publishers of the present work, which is the first of a contemplated series. A work better calculated to appeal to the tastes and desires of bookplate collectors cannot easily be imagined, and the completed series will be a precious possession to all interested in heraldic studies. A handsomer volume or one commending itself more warmly to those addicted to the latest, and in some respects most fascinating, of collecting manias has not yet been published, and the two hundred copies to which the issue is limited will be speedily appropriated. . . . . To give an idea of the wealth of plates, dated and undated, many of them of the utmost rarity and most of them calculated to make the epicure's mouth water, is a task not easily accomplished. . . . . We may draw the special attention to the plates of Sir Thomas Gage, Lady Elizabeth Germain, the Bewick plate of Henniker, Noel of Kirkby Mallory, Schaw of Greenoak, and the very curious plates of Sir Philip Sydenham. These present most known styles of armorial plates, and many of them are of the utmost rarity. We wish the editor and publishers God speed in their design, which will bring many prized plates to the knowledge of collectors, and cannot fail to encourage the study."—Notes and Queries, 31 August 1895.

"Dr. Howard is well known as a collector of many years' standing, and his name is a sufficient warranty for the volume: he has possibly the second largest collection of bookplates in Great Britain, perhaps in the world. The addition of the fact that the work is issued with the imprint of Messrs. Mitchell and Hughes, the well-known heraldic and genealogical publishers, gives it a further claim upon our notice, if such were needed.

"The examples given in the volume (of which there are one hundred) are for the most part rare plates, and the reproductions are exceedingly good, and taken from first-rate impressions. Each plate is printed separately, being lithographed on stout paper, which has been impressed with a plate mark. Thus the reproductions appear at first sight to be taken from the plates themselves, and a considerable improvement is effected on the usual flat appearance of lithography. This will enhance the value of the book in the eyes of collectors. Dr. Howard, from his official position in the College of Arms, as well as from the fact that he is Editor of 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' is a recognized authority on all matters appertaining to heraldry and family history, so that the memoranda which are given relative to the bookplates, and which are decidedly an important feature in this volume, may be accepted with perfect confidence. We notice also that the compiler has received valuable assistance from G. E. Cokayne, Esq., Clarenceux King of Arms.

"Although the volume (the first of a series) is restricted to Baronets, yet there is no lack of variety either in periods or styles. The plates are arranged in alphabetical order, and the list includes many famous names.

"The volume is quite worthy the attention of collectors. It is the first book we have seen that approaches the subject in a really serious manner, and shews the value, if properly estimated, of these objects of a collector's care. Dr. Howard has cleared up many doubtful points in his text, and on some of these we may speak again hereafter. In fact it is a typical volume, well compiled, capitally illustrated, and very nicely turned out of hand. We may add that it has an excellent index.

"As the number of copies is limited to two hundred the work is certain to be at a premium before long, especially as we understand that many orders have been received from America. We shall look forward with interest to a second volume, and trust that the publishers may be sufficiently encouraged to go on with the series as promised."—Ex Libris Journal, August 1895.

The Wardour Press Series

OF

Armorial Bookplates — Baronets.

FROM THE COLLECTIONS OF

JOSEPH JACKSON HOWARD, LL.D., F.S.A.,

MALTRAVERS HERALD EXTRAORDINARY.

WITH MEMORANDA RELATIVE TO EACH PLATE.

THE EDITION IS LIMITED TO 200 COPIES.

"'Armorial Bookplates, Baronets,' is a handsome quarto containing a hundred good reproductions of the bookplates of baronets, mostly of the last century, a few being a little earlier. It will be of interest to those who pursue the now fashionable craze of collecting bookplates, but as Dr. Howard only supplies us with information about the baronets, and gives no hints as to the artists who designed the plates, the value of the book as a contribution to the history of English art is not great. The compiler of a similar work in Germany would have tracked out many of the artists, and thus thrown light upon the history of his country's art; but we in England are not a people greatly given to research."—The Times, July 25, 1895.

"Next to the collection of bookplates of Sir Augustus Wollaston Franks, that formed by Dr. Howard, F.S.A., Maltravers Herald Extraordinary, is presumably the most extensive and valuable; it is certainly the most renowned. This collection has been placed at the disposal of the publishers of the present work, which is the first of a contemplated series. A work better calculated to appeal to the tastes and desires of bookplate collectors cannot easily be imagined, and the completed series will be a precious possession to all interested in heraldic studies. A handsomer volume or one commending itself more warmly to those addicted to the latest, and in some respects most fascinating, of collecting manias has not yet been published, and the two hundred copies to which the issue is limited will be speedily appropriated. . . . . To give an idea of the wealth of plates, dated and undated, many of them of the utmost rarity and most of them calculated to make the epicure's mouth water, is a task not easily accomplished. . . . . We may draw the special attention to the plates of Sir Thomas Gage, Lady Elizabeth Germain, the Bewick plate of Henniker, Noel of Kirkby Mallory, Schaw of Greenoak, and the very curious plates of Sir Philip Sydenham. These present most known styles of armorial plates, and many of them are of the utmost rarity. We wish the editor and publishers God speed in their design, which will bring many prized plates to the knowledge of collectors, and cannot fail to encourage the study."—Notes and Queries, 31 August 1895.

"Dr. Howard is well known as a collector of many years' standing, and his name is a sufficient warranty for the volume: he has possibly the second largest collection of bookplates in Great Britain, perhaps in the world. The addition of the fact that the work is issued with the imprint of Messrs. Mitchell and Hughes, the well-known heraldic and genealogical publishers, gives it a further claim upon our notice, if such were needed.

"The examples given in the volume (of which there are one hundred) are for the most part rare plates, and the reproductions are exceedingly good, and taken from first-rate impressions. Each plate is printed separately, being lithographed on stout paper, which has been impressed with a plate mark. Thus the reproductions appear at first sight to be taken from the plates themselves, and a considerable improvement is effected on the usual flat appearance of lithography. This will enhance the value of the book in the eyes of collectors. Dr. Howard, from his official position in the College of Arms, as well as from the fact that he is Editor of 'Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica,' is a recognized authority on all matters appertaining to heraldry and family history, so that the memoranda which are given relative to the bookplates, and which are decidedly an important feature in this volume, may be accepted with perfect confidence. We notice also that the compiler has received valuable assistance from G. E. Cokayne, Esq., Clarenceux King of Arms.

"Although the volume (the first of a series) is restricted to Baronets, yet there is no lack of variety either in periods or styles. The plates are arranged in alphabetical order, and the list includes many famous names.

"The volume is quite worthy the attention of collectors. It is the first book we have seen that approaches the subject in a really serious manner, and shews the value, if properly estimated, of these objects of a collector's care. Dr. Howard has cleared up many doubtful points in his text, and on some of these we may speak again hereafter. In fact it is a typical volume, well compiled, capitally illustrated, and very nicely turned out of hand. We may add that it has an excellent index.

"As the number of copies is limited to two hundred the work is certain to be at a premium before long, especially as we understand that many orders have been received from America. We shall look forward with interest to a second volume, and trust that the publishers may be sufficiently encouraged to go on with the series as promised."—Ex Libris Journal, August 1895.

Gravestones Old and Curious.

EMBELLISHED WITH ONE HUNDRED AND TWO ILLUSTRATIONS.

By W. T. VINCENT,

Author of "The Records of the Woolwich District," etc.

EXTRACTS FROM PRESS OPINIONS.

"With his quaint illustrations, over a hundred in number, and his ingenious methods of study and comparison, Mr. Vincent certainly manages to render his subject neither unattractive nor uninstructive."—The Times.

"Mr. Vincent describes himself as a gravestone rambler, and he has put the results of his rambles into a very readable book. He has produced a pious memorial of the fast vanishing headstones of our fathers. We could wish that every vicar's shelves contained his book, and that it might sometimes be lent to the sexton."—Daily Chronicle (in Leading Article).

"Many of Mr. Vincent's sketches shew either skulls or ghastly objects which an extremely imbecile stonecutter may perhaps have meant for skulls. These decorations are below the level of wall-paintings in Australian caves. But a 'Chippendale feeling' comes in. We have urns, garlands, elegant little Cupids supporting crowns, pretty girls seated reading (an unconscious reversion to the Attic type), or again, plump young ladies emerging from coffins, angels blowing trumpets out of clouds, and a Good Samaritan in the costume of George II."—Daily News (in Leading Article).

"It is a faithful collection of memoranda made at first hand. Mr. Vincent's book, with its hundred sketches, will furnish useful data for those who may desire to study the 'evolution of the gravestone.'"—Manchester Guardian (in Leading Article).

"Mr. Vincent deals with allegorical and other designs, as well as inscriptions, and the many illustrations with which the book is studded add considerably to its value."—Westminster Gazette.

"Every man to his hobby. That of Mr. W. T. Vincent seems to be rambling in old graveyards, and gathering from the stones there whatever is quaint and curious. That this is an interesting pursuit is evident from the attractive volume which Mr. Vincent has compiled."—Westminster Budget.

"It covers a wide field, and there are more than a hundred illustrations. There are touches of grim humour in certain of the pages, and many of the illustrations are exceedingly curious."—Lloyd's Newspaper.

"The book treats of a subject of very considerable interest, and if not exactly a lively or cheerful study, it is one which ought not to have been so entirely neglected as it has been."—The Antiquary.

"To churchyard ramblers and lovers of the curious this collection of gravestone curiosities will offer much that is interesting.—Publishers' Circular.

"Books of brasses, of mural monuments, of effigies erect and recumbent, of epitaphs old and quaint, there are many. But we do not know of any Old Mortality who has gone forth on the tramp, notebook and sketchbook in hand, to put together a book on the humbler types of Gravestones. Mr. W. T. Vincent has produced such a book from his own experiences and labours as a 'Gravestone Rambler;' and he deserves the praise and requires some of the consideration of the pioneer. . . . . There is no reason why Mr. Vincent should not find that he has led the way in a new and grim department of sport, art, and literature."—Scotsman.

"A work likely to prove of absorbing interest to archæologists, seeing that the Author, Mr. W. T. Vincent, is a pioneer traversing new grounds in the paths of literature. It is not, be it understood, a book of epitaphs, of which there are many in circulation, but a description of the oldest and most curious gravestones which Mr. Vincent has been able to discover in the course of his extensive rambles."—Leicester Advertiser.

"They are interesting relics of a past age, and probably there will be found others, now that attention has once been drawn to the subject. All traces of ancient customs are valuable, and the Author may certainly lay claim to have inaugurated a new line of investigation."—Western Morning News.

"There is no reason why gravestones should not prove as diverting and instructive as any other monumental remains of the past. The Author of this book has been at no little pains to gather together many interesting facts connected with graveyards and their many examples of quaint and primitive memorials of the dead. He has evidently rambled over the three kingdoms in search of the curious in his particular study, and certainly his book shews all the signs of a most painstaking zeal. Mr. Vincent's volume will repay perusal."—Belfast News Letter.
